

170 Upper Newtownards Rd,
Belfast, N. Ireland.
September, 1950.

Dear Friend,

As you know, SLANT has always been issued free to the members of any active British fan organisation, the first issue to the BFL and the second and third to the SFS. We would have liked to continue to do what we could to support British fan organisations but as no dues have been collected from members of the SFS for some time we have no way of knowing how many of them are still active. And since the news got around that three stories from previous issues have been bought for republication in American prozines there is enough demand for the magazine in the States to make it difficult for us to scatter some 110 copies among people who may have no interest in it.

So if you want to continue to receive SLANT I'm afraid you must subscribe. The rate is 1/-6 for two issues. No.4, just out, has a coloured cover and 38 pages of stories, articles and features.

Yours sincerely,

Walter A. Willis

