

A SFICTORY

ASFiC wants YOU

The directory of the Atlanta
Science Fiction Club

May/June, 1979

The ASFiTory is the official directory of all Atlanta fandom aligned with the Atlanta Science Fiction Club, or ASFiC, since that is easier to type. It is hoped that the ASFiTory will be of some aid in broadening the lines of communication between and among the membership.

This little thing you hold in your hand represents a preliminary #1 of the ASFiTory. It contains nothing more than the rudimentary beginning of what I have intended to publish as a directory for the members of ASFiC. Please take note of my suggestions, or any of yours, and help me shape this up into a class publication!

And, as far as May, 1979
is concerned, that's all of ya.
In the next few pages, I'll outline the directory I'm aiming for in the future.
I think everyone will like it.

Let me know!!!

Y'all may be wondering why that last page is blank. Well,...I fooped, that's why. I typed one page too many times and had to corflu it out, and I don't like to type on that much corflu. So, there's a page on me, free.

The listings just provided are adequate, but they aren't quite what I envisioned for the ASFIC-tory. What I had in mind was an all-purpose information guide to the members of ASFIC. Sort of a condensed Who's Who. I, for one, am very bad about not circulating thru the unfamiliar faces at the meeting, a trait I'm not proud of. So I don't know as much about each of you as I'd like.

And I suspect the converse is true.

Wouldn't you all like to know a bit more about each other? I can get us there, but it requires your help (aha!--the catch!)

I'll be circulating a survey at the June meeting which asks each member for some biographical data that may or may not be of interest to the rest of the membership. That remains to be seen. Basically, what I'd like for you to give me is your fannish interests, to go along with your name, address, and phone.

Hopefully, if everything works as expected, we'll eventually have a nifty little publication with a page devoted to each member and his arcana. Just think of the egoboo: a page of your very own.

Of course, you may not care for us to know anything more about you than your name and address, but I doubt if anyone in ASFiC is that secretive.

With the pages left to me this time, I'll give an example of the type of data page I'd like to see, plus an idea or two about how I'll keep it updated. Stay with us, the end is near!

Again, I apologize for the blank page, but the same thing happened. Besides, we're not far from the end, and there's not too much left to do or say.

When I come out with the actual ASFiTory, it should be in a good bit better shape than this one. Sorry about the smears on the inner pages; they won't be there in the final product.

What I intend to do is gather all the extra information, layout the new ASFiTory, and get a copy by hand or mail by the July meeting. After that time, any additions or changes will be listed on a periodical appendix to the regular directory, cut to facilitate easy stapling to the main body, until such time as a new main body is necessary.

Simple. Right?
