WHY JOIN ASFA?

ASFA is a growing organization which is becoming more active and powerful all the time. There's an old saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." It means that there's a lot of power inherent in momentum. Right now ASFA benefits from the efforts and energy of many committed and talented people. Their enthusiasm attracts others, and the momentum grows.

Members receive the ASFA Quarterly. If you haven't seen a copy of this fine publication lately, you don't know what you're missing. From thin newsletter to fat magazine, it has grown into a professional compilation of news, commentary, a forum for members to air their thoughts, and many articles of interest to anyone involved in science fiction and fantasy art.

Play an active part in the Liason Committee. National and regional art show liason committees are dedicated to improving communications between artists and convention art show directors and staffs — with input from other interested parties such as art buyers. The Committee has developed a set of guidelines for art shows as a result of its ongoing efforts to improve the convention art show for all involved.

Members nominate and vote for the annual ASFA Awards. The Awards (named the "Chesley") attempt to recognize artists who produce outstanding works in a variety of media, in several forums including both published and unpublished work (unlike the Hugo Award which only recognizes a catch-all "Best Artist" category).

Membership puts you in touch with some of the most active and innovative people in science fiction and fantasy illustration. If you have strong opinions on an issue in the field, chances are others do too. ASFA provides a soapbox for debate on topics of concern.

ASFA is spearheading an effort to change the Hugo Awards to more realistically reflect the world of sf&f art (a la the ASFA Awards).

ASFA sponsors from time to time gallery and museum art shows, demonstrating to skeptics that sf&f art has popular appeal, and opening up new show territory to some of our best artists.

Your ASFA membership plugs you in to an impressive "support system" too. If you have a technical or other art-related question, someone in the organization can give you an answer.

ASFA is coming into its own. If you are an artist, art show director or staffer, or just have an interest in science fiction and fantasy art, ASFA has more to offer you than ever. Don't delay — join today!
