CONSTITUTION GRANTED
TO NEW ORGANIZATION
Paulus Rex consents to democratic reforms

Leesburg, Cowpertowne,
NAEmp. (X/11/411)(KLST)
--Today the President of Coventry announced to congregations in Methylonia
his intention to create a new and more democratic government for CIAWOT. His intention has been to create new interest in the infant body which has been faltering under the chronic ailment, lack of energy.

The new government will include a General Assembly comprised of every active member of the Society, and will throw open a great many previously appointive offices to election.

SUPREME MINISTER RETIRES AFTER BATTLE WITH CHURCH AUTHORITIES

Condor, Luftstreif Eins, Reiches Duel, CRP (VII/14/411)(KLST) -- It was announced to Church authorities in Condor today by the Leader that he, Prinz Jerome, would no longer be serving his country as Supreme Minister.

It is expected that Hickey the Liberator, of the Wilhelmsburg Free State, now vice-President of the CRP, will be named his successor. Hickey gained his present position as a result of the shake-up which removed Edward W. Bush of New Greenland from the office to take that of Hickey, then Minister of Defence.

Jerome announced to the congregation in Condor that his resignation had been given because of the Church refusal to allow the use of submarines in the coming war with Linn. Public information will be circulated (though Jerome strenuously objects) that he resigned as a result of the failure of the Congress of the CRP to make what a Hamburg Tribune called "necessary totalitarian reforms for the conduct of national business during the war," which meant constitutional revision, and which was strongly disapproved of by the Church. It may be noted that the Leader's advice will still be employed by Supreme Minister Hickey in (Cont'd, p.8)

The Cowpertown Epistles

(A Series of editorial commentaries by the President of Coventry: Politics Condensed.)

I suppose, as I begin this survey, some fundamental misconceptions about Coventry should be corrected. First of all, Coventry is not, as some of my colleagues in it and outside it would have you believe at certain times, any more of a pretext for costume parties than the United States of America is an excuse for Caroline Kennedy to have a lawn to roll eggs on; it is a study of mankind. Coventrian history, as an example, forms itself in the eyes of an austere and experienced observer into three periods:

PERIOD	COVENTRIAN DATES	MUNDANE DATES
The Mariposan Era	1000-1900 A.D.	1949-1958 A.D.
The Phobean Era	1900-2125 A.D.	1956-1959 A.D. (no mundane projection though created in that era)
The Era of Fiction	2125- A.D.	1959-1974 A.D. (projected death of Paul Stanbery)

The Mariposan Era distinguishes itself from the other two by being one based upon actual events which happened on Earth according to varied accounts by their eye-witnesses. It has been analyzed by me (and this analysis has been popularly accepted by the participants) as progressing much as the history of western civilization did.

First, a series of cultures went through periods of activity and influence, then of decline and rest, culminating in their reactivation as parts of a monolithic state which in turn fell into the second period, a great decline. Third, a series of smaller cultures in imitation of the monolith maintained its ideals; fourth was a development of cultures and conflict between them in expanded influence on new outside cultures; fifth, a growth of great nation-states; sixth, the fusion of these outside areas and nation-states (all in imitation of the original monolith) into a world empire.

It was, however, the world empire which marked the end of the Mariposan history, for the conflict and desire for power which had helped the inhabitants to keep busy with their backyard countries had been exhausted. Here is a condensed outline of the development:

1000-1200 A.D.	The Gang Era	1949-1951
1200-1400 A.D.	The Empire of Stanberyland/Coventry	1951-1952
1400-1500 A.D.	The Dark Ages	1953
1500-1650 A.D.	The Feudal Awakening	1954-1955
1650-1800 A.D.	National Beginnings	1955-1957
1800-1900 A.D.	International Imperialism	1957

The Phobean historical period was one which finished a correlation of Coventrian events on a thousand-year scale with Earth's events of that corresponding period. It existed entirely in the minds of Paul and James Stanbery -- the first as a Coventrian organizer-philosopher, the second as a chronicler of the fictional asteroid of Phobus. Here is an outline of how the various pieces fitted together:

1900-1921 A.D.	Development of an international conscience
1921-1974	Soviet occupation (The Bleak Years)
1974-2100	Phobean historical period
2100-2125	Antarctican preparation for the Museum Age

After the year 2125 and the launching of Coventry as a star-ship, a new type of recording of events could be used, and a particular period in the voyages - beginning with the year 2348 (798 C.R.) - was set off to be fictionalized in the fanzine GIMBLE, based on projected characters and chains of events, approved by the Coventranian President, in which all wars fought would be determined according to the actual meetings of the heads of states involved, on a paper battlefield.

To help in the proper conduct of such activities -- the organization of Coventranian governments according to tradition, the mapping of Coventry's land masses, and the establishment of working war rules -- the CIAWOT Foundation has been dedicated.

Another example of Coventry as a study of mankind are the various governments on the Ship. The following chart gives these governments according to geographic power group:

SUPREME MINISTER RETIRES (Cont'd from p.1): the pursuance of victory and that the Leader's reforms in the CRP Defense Ministry will, so far as we know, still be carried into effect (again with Church opposition.) The Leader, however, has proclaimed since his retirement that he will continue the fight to re-institute submarine warfare. -30-

LATE BULLETIN

VIII/30/411: Prinz Jerome, Leader of the Reich of Duel and Ambassador Plenipotentiary for the CRP, has announced that he has reached an agreement whereby the Church, through its Commission of Sport, will allow submarines to be converted into tanks (on the "mud turtle" fighting unit principle) for use in land combat, thus rebalancing at last an inequity which would have cost the CRP billions of dollars and some sixty years of submarine power accumulation. The Duelliantrained Marine Corps are being outfitted with the new weapons and have been christened Panzer Divisions by the Leader, who foresees them as the vanguard of the CRP Armies in Linn. -30-

CIAWOT BUILT TO ORDER POWER IN COVENTRY

Raiyn of the Tower named to Temporal Upper 12 with Executive Secretaryship

King's Rivenfell, Buckland, N.A. Emp. VIII/8/411 (KLST) -- Upon a mission of trade from the Haidrom Islands, in which Chief Engineer Raiyn participated, Paulus Rex, acting in his capacity as President of Coventry, proclaimed the re-establishment of an old organization suggested by Lakos of Collinsia.

Called CIAWOT, an obscure name in the dialect of the El Cortine, the Society was (we quote from Lakos's petition, written in the spring of 410): "so that Coventry should be developed to a more 'mature' level (by the) organizing of all material, mapping of all areas, collecting all history, deciding on all governmental forms, and being definite ... (in the cultural) relationships between countries."

Lakos also suggested that a method of declaring and waging war be fixed that could bring about an absolute decision. The suggestion of Lakos was forgotten until Raiyn's visit, when he was made Executive Secretary of the Coventranian earth-bound realm for the administration of the writing of stories about Coventry. In other words, the Civitas Coventrani Terrestrialis will be governed by the CIAWOT organization, while the Civitas Coventrani Universalis will be organized in itself and according to the official stories concerning it. The reader is advised to be sure when he reads a Coventranian document to make certain whether it is one dealing with the Civitas Coventrani Terrestrialis or CIAWOT, or one dealing with the Civitas Coventrani Universalis or Coventry Proper, because the two are regulated differently in many cases. -30-
