

DEGLER! #28

This is Degler! #28, published for the December 18th ailing of apa F by Andy Porter, 24 east 82nd street, NY, NY, 10023. Porterpub #42, also Algot Annish(!)
-----

I know that most of you will be surprised at the above words, but I believe in keeping my annishes small. Every five years, however, I will have a hundred page issue, and every 50 years I plan to have a 1,000 page annish. That, however, I'm not worrying about yet.

The lineup so far for nextish is pretty good, with about 5 articles promised by interesting people. I've also followed Daves' advice and sent out possible lines to about ten different people.

Several interesting things have happened in the space of this past week. One is the possibility of my moving to Greenwich Connecticut( in about two years). My parents have been interested in getting a summer place, and they've found a lot in Greenwich that can be a year-round place, too, if we want to build one. So far, we do. But there's nothing definite on it yet; we've not bought any property or anything like that.
//////////

Hopefully Frank Wilimczyk and Lee Hoffman will show up at this meeting, for which eventuality I'm bringing some masters, so that I'll be able to produce a fannish New Year's card for fannish sorts.

I think I've forgotten something, so I'll go on to MCs and think of it later. Incidentally, from now on if there's no comment for your zine, it means I don't find anything to comment on.

Cover, Me: That cover was almost ruined; when I ran it off at NYU, I used 16 lb. paper which wrapped itself around the drum and smeared all the carbon. When I grabbed it off and dried the carbon on the master a lot had been removed. Otherwise it would have come out much darker than it did. /-/maLaise#6, DVA: I find that apa L is a bit too fractious (is that the word I want) for my tastes. People are constantly arguing in it, which I don't go for. At the current time I print 25 copies for apa F with tea going into my files. Total printed of 35. I didn't know anyone could resign from apa L or F for that matter, seeing as how we have no membership requirements. A tempest in a Teapot, really. /-/ OPO#23, LUpoffS: Christ, a one page only. OPO. Will wonders never cease(I hope not)! /-/First. Draft#40. DVA: I for one am rather Tired of hearing about how the Imperialistic Whites are killing all the poor starkeling Congo rebels who, really, never did them any harm. (...) I also find myself shifting to the opinion that Puerto Rico should be made a trustee of the UN, which would get a ptoblem island off our hands, which is a problem because of 1) high birth rate 2) low living standards, 3) PR's coming to NYC for work which doesn't exist, 4) Their clogging the slums and refusing to learn the language, 5) getting on relief and having babies with no sense whatsoever of community and parental responsibility. In my opinion they should all have something done to them, like involuntary sterilization(which would save the city of NY 10s of millions annually. What do you think, Dave? I now have comments for Arnie Katz, who makes much sense when he speaks like this. Now they follow:

All of us intend to remain active in fanzine fandom, I think. Non-drinkers can be effectively taken care of by use of much soda, etc., at parties.

I think we should start to actively campaign in, for instance, the want ads of F & SF, Amazing, and Fantastic. Their ad columns are doing very good business from the way they've increased in size. This will bring our bid to the attention of the reader and collector who will go to a convention to buy books and not for the parties only. I know many of this type of collector myself.

For the Neffers we could dish up, as Arnie says, a revision of something or other that has been out of print for a long time. I just bought a copy of Fanspeak, which I think would lend itself very well to revision and reprinting for the N3F.

One serious drawback for us, in a way, is that we would be suspected of sneakiness if more than a few of us were to join the N3F. Baltimore is mainly neo-oriented, while we, I think, are beyond that stage where we need the guidance and help of a big mother organization which we run to for help. Ted, Dave, Steve, etc. are far beyond that stage. The Only ones of us who could possibly not feel assinine totally as members are me, Arnie, and possibly Mike.

The NAPA is fairly well covered, but we should do as Arnie suggests, try to reach the rest of the organization more effectively than we have been doing.

*** I think, for the time being, I will res. there and let informative conversation flow back and forth.***

That's the MCs for this session.

The whatsis that originallt appeared in Dynatron, thence to Astoundalog, now is on the cover of MAD. Oh well.

Tonight I have distictive prooff for all time that ADKINS is a copycat type.

What else did I have to write down? I seem to have ~~for~~ forgotten. Well, I got a bunch of TWIGS in the mail, including the Twig Illustrated's that were such great things for artwork. Soething I hadn't noticed, but they were for the most part tops in artw work with poor contents. In fact, Terwillegar recognizes that fact for himself.

They have discovered a subterranean lake beneath the Spanish Sahara, about 600 miles long (?) and made of fresh water. I guess that The Secret People by Whyndham is now a nonfiction listing.

And tgat, I suppose, is ~~about~~ about it.
