Who's LATE?

Yes, we know we are late, but we hope the fact that the Convention is only six weeks off will excuse us. Things are really starting to move, and as there are only 24 hours in a day, something must be left.

This will be the last issue before the Convention, which will see the publication of the 40 page Convention number.

We hope you will understand.

THE WRATH OF GRAPES by Leonard Wibberly, published by Robert Hale, London.

When the duchy of Grand Fenwick - - which measures 3 miles by 5 miles - realises that the U.S. is producing a copy of the wine which is Grand Fenwick's only export, the inhabitants of the duchy decide to declare war in order that, as losers of the battle, they will receive relief from the U.S.

These well arranged plans go awry, when the little army, dressed in chain mail and armed with long bows - GF has not gone to war in 500 years - arrive in New York as New Yorkers are rehearsing a mock A-Bomb attack. They capture one Professor Kokintz and his 'Q' bomb, and take them back to GF.

Readers are well advised to get the book and find out how this hilarious story finishes up.

THE SWORD OF RHIANNON by Leigh Brackett, published by T. V. Boardman Ltd, London, review copy from publishers, available from most booksellers.

An American thief gets the Sword of Rhiannon, the legendary Lucifer of Old Mars, who was secretly entombed by his peers because he revealed scientific secrets.

Carse is pushed into Rhiannon's grave, and finds that it is a time flow. His adventures in the civilization that existed on Mars when it was a young, green planet, makes entertaining reading. It was first published as an Ace PB but is well worth reading twice.

THE OCTOBER COUNTRY by Ray Bradbury, illustrated by Joe Mugnani, published by Rupert Hart-Davis, London.

Ray Bradbury's stories are, as usual, excellent.

Nineteen tales are included in this book, not all new, but all are well worthwhile reading. It is a matter of personal choice as to which is the best story of the collection. My choice is THE BEST IN LINE, certainly is most horrifying in it's own way.

Dust Jacket and interior illustrations match Bradbury's style wonderfully well.

Ray Bradbury and Joe Mugnani have given us a collector's item by joining their amazing skills

HENRY A. FAGAN

Published by Jonathan Cape Ltd., London. 17/-.

This book is one of the oddest I have had the misfortune to review. With strong apartheid and communistic themes running through it, and the whole thing full of inconsistencies, the average reader would bog down in a very short time.

Briefly, a space ship crashes on the Moon, and another lands 5 years later. A crew member, a bit inquisitive, and wanders over the rim, where he finds survivors of the earlier ship, living in the crater bottoms, along with Moonmen, of which there are four types. After many weird and wonderful happenings, he escapes and gets back to Earth.

This one left me with mixed feelings , as some of the ideas and gimmicks are humorous, others are good.

Worth reading as an example of that type of fantasy writing that postulates a new kind of world, without really considering the facts of life in that new environment.

You may like it, but don't blame me if you feel that 17/- is about twice what it's worth.

By Dennis Morton

Cover - a wash colour drawing - by Dick Jensen

September 27th, at the home of George and Betty Tafe, the meeting having been advanced a week due to the fact that our hosts are leaving Brisbane for a trip 'south of the border'.

Present at the meeting were :- Frank Bryning, George and Betty Tafe, John and Merle Tafe, Ken Kemp, and running a very late last, Ken Quinlem.

Contrary to 'After 6 PM Fire Regulations', Betty started several fires, but no outside assistance was required, as they were of an internal nature and quickly killed with the aid of several glasses of water.

Too much praise, however, cannot be given to Betty's cooking. Previous experience of same no doubt prompted John and Merle to arrive as it was being served.

Note John's opening remark:

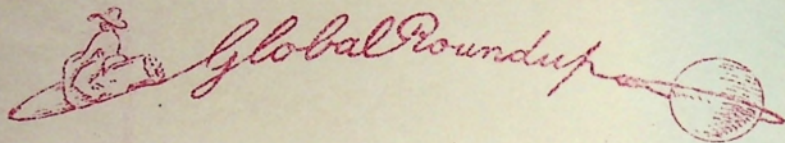

"How's about some supper?"

Ken Quinlem arrived very late, bringing with him a seemingly endless supply of puns and witty sayings.

Many happy returns of the 26th September to Betty, and a warning that she should be more careful when showing a photo of herself at a certain age, and then telling when the photo was taken. However, I can keep a secret.

Ken Kemp delivered the photos taken at the August meeting, having been absent at the last.

MAGAZINE

Reviews

October 1956. 2/3.

This issue has, on the cover, a picture of Chris Chataway - mile runner - and the forecast, based on his stars, that he will set a new record shortly.

Donald Keyhoe discusses the possibility of life on our Moon; the Koreshan sect believe that they live inside the Earth (Pellucidar ?), and there are articles on Dead Sea scrolls, flying saucers and strange anthropoids in Malaya.

A better than usual issue.

Roger McHugh.

NEW WORLDS
SCIENCE FICTION

No. 51. 3/-.

Cover by Quinn - no relation to the contents, but as usual is very good.

THE LEADING SCIENCE FICTION JOURNAL

Lan Wright's TIME WILL TELL is a rather confusing story of an underground to drive men out of their beehive cities. So so. CONVICTION by Brian W. Aldiss - our hero saves Earth with a bluff. He doesn't know it fails. Fair.

Syd Bounds MUTATION takes the form of a being able to read implied meanings to speech and actions. Fair.

DEWILLERS IN SILENCE marks the re-appearance of Norma Hemming in British magazines, and it is a rather fine story of an alien telepath in Earth's culture. In CREEP, E. R. James shows how to save the space ship and win the girl. Rah! Rah!

REPORT ON EARTH by J. T. McIntosh is a good piece of writing around a rather weak plot.

Illos by Quinn and Hutchings round off an issue slightly better than last.

Jack Keating.

.....

Authentic

No. 72. 2/9

Another Blandford/Mortimer cover illustrates REWARD FOR VALOUR by Mark Clifton. Well drawn. Story is only so so, being the last words from a doomed passenger.

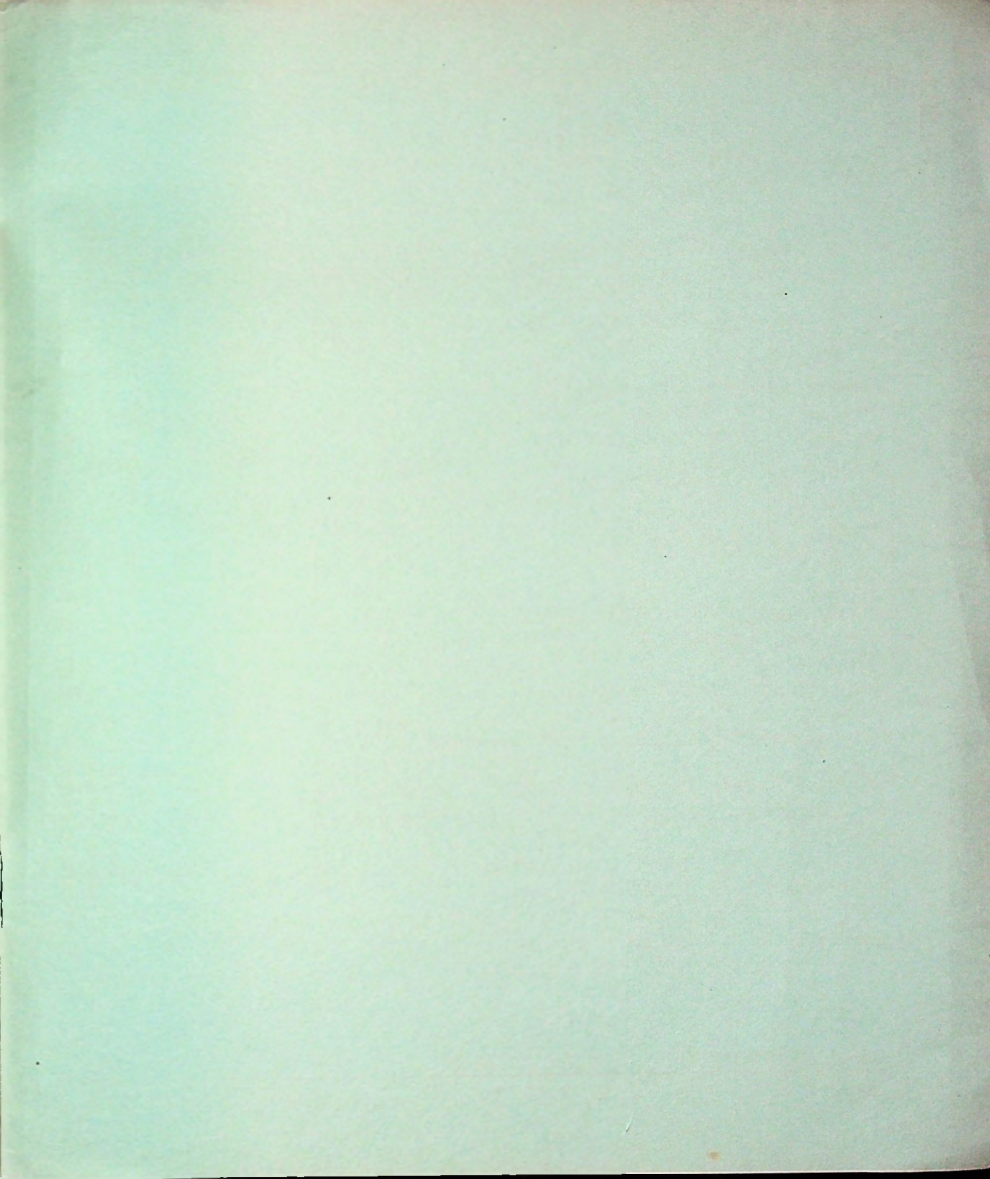

THE GIVE AWAY WORLDS by Julian Gray is just transportation future style. SO LOVELY, SO LOST by James Causey, a fair story of an android Pagliaccio. THE WAY I AM by Dan Morgan tells how a dead beat spaceman gets away from it all.

CAT UP A TREE by Robert Presslie demonstrates a cure for psychopathic colonists. Fair. REPLY DEFERRED by Johnathan Stones - I can't see any reason for this one to be published!

Articles well thought out, interiors up to standard.

Please Ted, find a new barrel - you've scraped the bottom of this one.

Jack Keating.
