ISFANEWS NO. 32

MAY 1974

BE BETTER
THAN 1973

NEXT MEETING AT: JERRY HUNTER'S L) 1039 E. 75th St., Indianapolis IN. 46240
Saturday May 4, 7.30

There's one advantage when you're waiting for inspiration to hit you while using a manual; you don't feel as if you're wasting electricity.

Last meeting was a small one, consisting of Dave Burton, The Miesels and Coulsons and Thompsons, and the male and female pretzals. (Courtesy of Sandra and my Father). It was a nice, normal, meeting.

I was reading over the old Eisfa's and it occured to me that Indy fans are a lot duller and more stolid these days. No clubs splitting apart, no feuds or arm-wrestling, no glorius conventions at Bellfontaine, just a meeting every month and fannish conversation. Maybe we should have a worldcon to liven things up.

I'm becoming a poor man's Bob Hope these days at the high school (Which will give you an idea of how hard up they are.) I had been composing monologue and memorizing others from Bob Newhart, when I was suddenly called upon to speak before the class. I immediately started reciting, and was surprised when it was well recieved. For a little while I was being shuffled around and giving monologues in all the classes, but apparently that fad is gone now.

Juanita just told me to leave a blank space and say "Jerry Hunter doodle here." ~~xxxx~~ What???

Writng while half asleep is not the best way to be scintillating.

I suppose it is a bit wasteful to leave half of a one page fanzine blank. If I had any old laundry lists or bits of writings I could use those as fillers, But I don't use laundry lists (and I'm sure Jerry will say I don't use laundry), and I want to save writings in case I become famdus

FAPA is an old fannish joke. (or) Fandom is an old FAPAish joke. (Take your pick)

Bah! From here on out you can right your own Fanzine.

(Bruce Coulson's Do-it-Yourself Fanzine. Write something in the below space, mimeograph and send it out, and you have the makings of a brilliant one-shot, or, if you wish to repeat the prcess, a regular crudzine.)
