ROWAN JESSOP (Jophan): Ever since she learned to walk and talk, Rowan as loved being on stage. She is constantly acting, singing and dancing, when she's not playing one of her three instrments. the rest of the time she's cudding her dog or reading about dragons. Favorite author currently is David Eddings.

RALF BAYER: Born in 1962, he's been reading SF and fantasy since early childhood. It started with Perry Rhodan comics from a discount store, and books from the library. And, of course, the Moon landing in 1969. He started going to conventions in 1999 He sings in two choirs, and plays the clarinet.

ADI LOYA: A London actress/writer, so naturally holds a full-time job. She's been part of the Israeli SF community for over 15 years, and recently won the Geffen award for the best short story in 2018 for her story "Witch."

MARK BERNSTEIN: He's been active in fandom since 1973, and in filk (science fiction folk singing) since 1975. In 2016, he was inducted into the filk hall of fame. He acts and sings i community theater. This is his first out-of-North-America Worldcon.

YULIA SYROMOLOT: She is 49 years old, from Ukraine. Chemical engineer, freelance translator, fiction writer, wife, mom, dancer, singer. Never been to a foreign convention before. Fascinated with Ireland for many years, and glad to see it with my own eyes.

LIS GILLOT (stage manager): She's from Chicago, Illinois. She's been involved in fandom for over 30 years. Volunteering at several Worldcons, she's worked backstage at a couple of Worldcon masquerades. She truly enjoys musical theatre.

KRIS BURGER (tech liaison): She holds a BA in Theatre Arts, and is a Craftsman-rnaked costumer. She loves Star Wars, Deadpool, knitting, and reads math books for fun. She has two cats, one husband, and in her boring mundane life, she's a banker, which uses a theatre degree more than one might suspect.

ERWIN S. (FILTHY PIERRE STRAUSS (accompanist): Our maestro has been making music in fandom for over 50 years. He's the compiler of the Microfilk, a compendium of science fictional folk songs from the 1970s and before. This is his first time as a theatrical accompanist.
