MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS

I realize some of you have already submitted zines for mailing 232, and apologize for the lateness of this post-mailing, but:

In one of the longest mailing transits in history, mike weber's zine was mailed on the Thursday before the deadline, arrived back in Georgia a month later (marked "undeliverable as addressed" even though it had the correct address on it), and was sent out in a similar envelope a week later to arrive here in four days. Since this zine was intended for mailing 231, and mike was willing to pay for it to be post-mailed, it now is part of mailing 231 in the theological, ontological, and practical senses, as well as by Editorial fiat.

The deadline for mailing 232 is still Thursday 27 March, with the usual institutional stop until I start working on the OO after the following Saturday's mail delivery.
