Cousin Guy's Early Bird Stats (through the SFPA #223)

Well, I finally got lucky and broke the long-standing tie for third place on the Early Bird Stats listing, thanks to this zine. Of course, chances of my catching Guy or Ned are not very good, but if I can chip away little by little and out live both of them, who knows.

This marks the end of the fifth year of doing Uncle Lon's Unofficial Box Scores and the continue to offer a look at our page count progress or regression. Speaking of which, a number of folks got hit by drops in their total pages for the last year, including the head honcho leader, Jeff Copeland. But he keeps a strong hold on first place, while Richard Dengrove has battled his way to the second place slot with a nice 32.17 pages-per-mailing average. The largest jump was mike weber moving from 11th to seventh on the strength of those under-sized zines of his.
