Suddenly, from out of the blue, the world traveler, Richard Lynch, pops up as the first zine in the mailing and moves from a tie for 10th place to a tie for sixth with such legends as Lon Atkins, Alan Hutchinson, George Wells and Arthur Hlavaty. Whoooo weee, some movement in Uncle Lon's Unofficial Box Scores this time around. Yours truly made a big leap back into the No. 2 position. That may be a short-lived stay, but old Jeff Copeland with his semi-mini-zines takes an even stronger hold on first place. Other big movers are Steve Hughes, who charges up into double-figure territory; and Sheila Strickland, with a 12-page leap into the No. 13 post. Of course, it was the Egoboo Poll mailing, so chances are things will slim down a bit this time around.

But, the nice thing about the Box Scores is that there always will be another chance next mailing.
