WHAT'S JACK KIRBY GONNA DO WITHOUT MARVEL? Well, he's getting paid more per page than any comicbook penciler ever. At DC, he will be inked by Vince Colletta. The books he is editing will include The New Gods and The Forever People, books with much the same format and overlapping characters. Each book will contain a 3-page showcase of new talent (first issue will have pinups of the characters). We gather he has finished the first issues already. Kirby also is doing a Jimmy Olsen story -- guest-starring The Newsboy Legion.

Meanwhile, DC let a large part of the production department go--color separators and so forth. Reportedly cut payroll $1000 per week. Weisinger and Leibowitz left 1 Apr and the Kinney people moved in and axed the production people. Trembling at DC...

There are a lot of 25¢ annuals upcoming this summer. DC will give us (dated Oct) House of Mystery, Jerry Lewis and The 3 Mouseketeers. They also are supposed to be planning Aquaman and Challengers annuals, but we have no final word on these. At Marvel, they will issue (in May) annuals for Iron Man, Sgt. Fury (the latter will contain some new stuff; one of those short "humor" pieces about how the comic is created; most of the annuals will be all-reprint this year). The 25¢ Ka-Zar will be out in May, too, but it is a quarterly, not an annual. Sometime this summer, there will be an X-Men annual, all reprint. ## Marvel will have a new book called Spoof, sort of like a Mad imitation and a revival of Not Brand Echh. Probably no superhero satires; they'll do things like "Darn Shadows." ## Reason Marvel stopped doing reprints of old stuff is that they don't have Black&White proofs and reprinting from comic books is unsatisfactory. Anyone have those lost, strayed or stolen b&w proofs? ## Steve Englehart is assisting Neal Adams; you will see his name on credits for a story coming up in Vampirella.

A lot of people ask us where The Comic Reader is... Mark Hanerfeld keeps talking about bringing out an issue Real Soon Now but is very busy with many projects, including the Academy of Comic Book Artists and Writers, a growing organization co-chaired by Stan Lee and Neal Adams. The group has had at least one meeting, plans a newsletter. You may have to wait for Alley results this year, too. (Rumor: Tom Palmer best inker.)

Fred Patten said in his Heavy Water #45 (a CAPA-alpha fanzine): "Bill Warren was showing around a couple of weeks ago an official memo from Jim Warren to all authors and artists who regularly submit material to CREEPY/EERIE/VAMPIRELLA. Beginning immediately, they are to play down aspects of sex in the abovementioned three zines as much as possible. Reason: Warren is beginning another new illustrated horror mag, this one to be aimed at adults and in which he will concentrate all his stories with sexual overtones; the current three are to be revised for a younger readership than is now the case. He wants to begin getting material in the new slant for the current three as soon as possible. The letter didn't say anything about how to slant/submit material to the new adult horror mag; presumably instructions will come later."

Changes, a NY rock tabloid, (35¢ from 35 West 56th St., NYC 10019) has a special comics issue dated Apr 15. Dick Lupoff on reading Cap Marvel as a kid; Omar Wayne on Superboy; Tony Goodstone on Buck Rogers; a good Stan Lee interview; Dean Latimer on Carl Barks (mostly derived from Comic Art #7; errors are Latimer's own); Lenny Kaye on Classics Illustrated (and Lenny is the one who edited and produced the whole package); Andrew Warner on comics fandom; R. Meltzer on underground-comix; the whole shebang shallowly introduced by Don Thompson with a collage drawn (not pasted up) by Maggie Thompson. It is a nice survey, nothing profound. You may be able to find it on your newsstands. We will give a free issue of NF to anyone who can identify all the characters in Maggie's collage; to the first one to do so, that is. If enough people ask, we will run a key to the illustrations in NF.

Rich Buckler, Detroit fan-turned-NYC-pro, is working for Marvel, DC and Jim Warren on mystery/horror/supernatural stories, may do Superman at DC and Ka-Zar at Marvel. ## Some other DC work from Detroit -- a group of fans is working on a very different western strip for Kubert. ## Cleveland fan Mike Hudak was hit in the eye with a board, wore an eye patch a la Nick Fury; Mike is a Marvel fan, and so it was even on the same eye. Happy ending: he is recovering just fine, eye and all. ## Klaus Janson, artist on Tony Isabella's fan-revival of The Creeper, is now working at Charlton. ## Marvel is/will be doing reprints in their love story books (you did all see the Steranko story in Our Love Story #5 last month, didn't you?).

Mad news: #136 coverfeatures Botch Casually and the Somedunce Kid; the issue has several highlights, including Dave Berg on Sex, The Mad Sex Education Primer and a send-up of Room 222. On sale soon is the 60¢ Mad Special (yet another annual?) which includes 17 pages of new material, a die-cut, ready-to-assemble voodoo doll and portfolios of Berg, Martin, TV satires and movie satires.

A two-part Avengers on sale in July and August will feature a modern Indian, Red Wolf.

The following editorial statement is directed toward those who have been bugging us lately. To those who have not bugged us, we apologize for taking up all this space explaining elementary things about us and Newfangles...

We do NOT make any money on NF; we lose money. So, don't accuse us of trying to cheat people unless you like the idea of getting sued; one person did so in another newsletter. The editor of that publication called to apologize and promised to print a retraction and apology; the person who wrote it has had his money refunded and will, we hope, apologize and retract before we get nasty. The issue he said was a cheat was #31, which had 6 pages of news & reviews and the first announcement of Mort Weisinger retiring -- since we guarantee only one sheet of news, that is an odd way to cheat anyone. (Since NF is not a moneymaker, we have no bank account for it; make checks payable to Don Thompson, not to Newfangles -- it's awfully hard to explain to tellers.) If you feel you are being cheated, tell us and you will get an immediate refund. I'm sick and tired of the people who never say anything to us but attack us in fanzines we never see (particularly guilty parties are some DC campfollowers).

We have been accused of inaccuracy, primarily because we admit our errors and correct them. Check any newsletter of a year ago and you will find some news items that did not pan out as given. If you want us to wait until we are 100% sure before printing, you don't want a newsletter; just wait till stuff hits the stands. We said last fall that Green Lantern and Justice League were dead; at that time, that was true, but they later were reprieved (our news source was Denny O'Neil; know a better one?). And you may recall that Marvel predicted Steranko's O'Ryan's Odyssey for an upcoming issue of Marvel Super Heroes and had to apologize. What is true today is not necessarily true tomorrow. We also get the complaint that an issue does not contain enough news or even (idiotically) that it does not contain any good news; we don't make it up, we report it. Some months there is none, some months it's all bad. Complain to God if you must, not us. To an extent, we depend on strangers for news; sometimes they lie or are inaccurate. You would be surprised at the length of our list of sources to be ignored.

Some write to complain that we reprint news from other zines [with credit]. Well, not everyone -- not even a majority -- of our readers get TCR or any other fanzine. And, of course, you write to the many newsletters which print NF news without credit, often calling it a "scoop"? One had the "scoop" about Kirby leaving more than 3 weeks after NF 33 was mailed... (Incidentally, there was only one #33, the extra; sorry if you thought there was a #33 and a #33 extra.) Some complained about getting only one sheet for a dime; that's all we ever promised anyone, gang. Every time you get more than one sheet of NF, we are losing a bundle -- we can break even on one sheet. Think for a moment where your dime goes. Six cents goes for postage for openers; the four cents left over goes for stencils, paper, ink, telephone calls and letters to check news items... And time. Our time is worth money, gang. In the time it took me to write the extra on Kirby, I wrote an article for Changes and got $25 for it; in the time it took Maggie to mimeograph, collate, staple and address #32, she illustrated my article and got $25 for that. In other words, instead of publishing NF at a loss, we could be freelancing and making money. Yes, someone is getting cheated by NF, but who do you think it is?

Very high on our list of people who bug and frustrate us are the ones who write and say: "I heard last week that Kirby had gone to DC." Why, why didn't you tell us?

Minor items to fill out the rest of the page. We do not, as a rule, plug upcoming fanzines (try James Shull's CriFanAc, 7 for $1 from 4546 Fulton Ave., Sherman Oaks, Calif 91403 -- he does). We do not always run everything we'd like; if your favorite comicbook or fanzine hasn't been reviewed or mentioned as you think it deserved, there may be many reasons, none of which need be that we didn't think it deserved mentioning. For every thing we include, something else gets left out. When you resubscribe, it helps if you mention it's a renewal. We freely grant permission to reprint NF news; it certainly would be nice of you to say where you read it and give our address and price, though, wouldn't it? If postal rates go up, so will the price of NF; if you don't want to see that, write to your non-postage-paying congressman or senator. Pax.

FAN NEWS In March, the Post Office Dept ordered a nation-wide crackdown on chain letters (which violate federal lottery and fraud laws). The department has recorded a 476% upsurge in chain letters investigated from Aug through the end of Jan. And Gary Behymer recently received two chain letters (both the Bill Needham item bugging so many fans) and forwarded copies of both to "the Internal Revenue, Postal Authorities, and the APO as I am a military personnel." Good for him--and may we all imitate his behavior. This bit is rapidly getting cleaned out of fandom--and the sooner the better. %% Mike Barrier (Box 7420, Forest Park Station, Little Rock, Arkansas 72207) announces that Funnyworld #12 has been delayed slightly; it will definitely cost $1 and will probably be 48 pages, photo-offset, professionally typeset; and it will have color Metzger covers and a long, fully illustrated interview with Bob Clampett. Due out this month or next. We recommend this in advance to all fans interested in "funny animal" comics and/or animated cartoons. %% George Henderson has a new printer who is fine on Whizzbang--but who will cost him twice as much per issue on Comic World. He'll probably return to his old printer for CW. (For that matter, he'll soon be changing the name of CW.) This is delaying his production schedule a bit, but he'll soon be back as prolific as ever. %% Starting with #7 of Whizzbang, single copies will be 35¢ plus 5¢ postage. Sub, though, will still be 10 for $3, with option to start a sub with the current issue or with #2. (#1 is out of print.) George Henderson, 594 Markham Street, Toronto 5, Ontario, Canada. %% Jerry Bails has all Prisoner episodes on video tape but the last. In three different showings in Detroit, that last one has missed Jerry completely; he thinks it was skipped completely last time--way to go, Detroit! Does anyone else use VTR--and have the last episode? Jerry Bails, 487 Lakewood Blvd., Detroit, Michigan 48215. %% John Ryan went to two doctors after chest and arm pains bothered him. The second referred him to a heart specialist. He saw the specialist at 1:30 and was in the hospital by 5, "confined to bed completely, not allowed to do a damn thing for myself." Ten days later he was released, told to take it easy, take tablets, and report for a series of blood tests. About a week later, he suffered new pains, this time in the liver area. Turned out he was bleeding from the kidneys as a result of the pills; he's now on new ones. During all that, daughter Fiona was very, very ill with bronchitis and son Sean bashed his mouth (two stitches) and wife Jan dislocated a toe. But the specialist said John could return to work Mar 23, provided he took it easy. This means the Ryans are incredibly broke and out of any spare time. He has had to cut back on fanac radically, though he'll keep in as much of a hand as he can. But please understand delays and cutbacks, all of his correspondents! Anyway, he grew a beard during his tribulations...

While fan Ron Schwartz and his wife were attending a con in Colorado, their house caught fire--destroying garage, kitchen, family room, and most of the roof. Among things lost were his 1944-1952 Sunday comics from the SF Examiner. Structural damage of $13,000 was fully covered, but the $11,000 loss on contents was only covered to $6,000. Luckily, most of his comics had been stored in his den, and after three months of apartment living, they're back home. Since he just passed his CPA exams, things are looking up. % The only data we could give on Kiss, Screw, Pleasure and Sex in NF#31 was what we got from the book. We understand that to order by mail, write Library Service, Inc., POBox 20303, San Diego, Calif. 92120, ask for it (#GP525), include $4.75 and 25¢ handling, and state that you're over 21. (No minors may order it.) See NF#31 for our review.

Carl Barks writes: "Apparently Chase Craig has accepted the 14-page Junior Woodchuck script, which, in case I haven't told you, is about the Woodchucks' finding the bones of a prehistoric beast much larger than a dinosaur. Their leader names it Colossosaurus Duckburgus Woodchucki in honor of its discoverers. Immediately the chucks learn that Uncle Scrooge is building a super highway which will run straight through the bones." We won't tell you more; keep an eye out for it.

Mike Royer is working on Banana Splits, Road Runner and Tarzan, as well as for Warren. Mike wrote the script for Tarzan 196 and has adapted "Tarzan and the Tarzan Twins" for an upcoming issue. Currently on sale is part 1 of "Tarzan and the Foreign Legion" in T #192; part 2 will be in 193; "Lost Empire" in 194-195. Pretty soon, though, the adaptations will stop and they'll go back to new comicbook stories by Gayelord Du Bois. Tarzan, Dark Shadows, Believe It Or Not and Boris Karloff Tales of Mystery are cut in text form (illustrated) at 60¢ for a larger-than-pocket-size book; not much for 60¢.

Andy Zerbe mentions that the late Erle Stanley Gardner had a fringe connection with the comics: Both Dell & McKay published comics based on Perry Mason. ## We temporarily misplaced a letter from Jon Carter saying that Look recently printed a piece by Bill Cosby illustrated by Harvey Kurtzman -- can anyone supply us with a copy? ## While we are asking, can anyone get us a good copy of the June 1969 Playboy? Can any of our Canadian readers get us a copy of Max Ferguson's And Now...Here's Max (let us know and we'll pay for book and postage)? ## You can get a multiple sculpture of Mickey Mouse by Ernest Trova for $355 by mail (and can charge it to BankAmericard) from International Collectors Society, 96 Prince St. NYC 10011. ## According to Dwight Decker, Steve Ditko has done a strip for a $3 mag, Bizarre Life, a bondage fetish publication. Dwight says the strip was called "Sweeter Green" and was filled with trussed-up babes and sado-masochism. ## Vaughn Bodé originally was to do Sunpot for Ted White's Fantastic but was hired away by Galaxy; so there will be work by Jay Kinney and others in Fantastic instead. And now we understand Bodé is quitting Sunpot, threatening to kill everyone off and draw endless page-after-page of dead bodies if they won't let him out of his contract. ## John Cochran says "Dick Strong & His Electronic Sex Machine" is still running in Evergreen and may be another book like Barbarella and Phoebe Zeit-Geist. John also says he read that Chelsea House has acquired the rights to all the Dick Tracy strips. We gather a book similar to the Buck Rogers volume is planned. And we may get still another one of Little Orphan Annie. Wish they'd do them right, though.

John Balge cautions those who buy posters labeled "Captain America": The poster is of Peter Fonda in Easy Rider; that's the name he goes by in the film. ## John Ryan says Air Hawk is now being drawn on Sundays by Hart Amos. Keith Chatto will draw a comic book, Skippy, based on the TV series about the boy with a pet kangaroo. Stan Pitt has done 6 or 7 covers for the SF mag Vision of Tomorrow. Stan is to do illustrations for reprints of John Russell Fearn's "Golden Amazon" series in a projected companion mag to VoT. ## Hey, British friends: Can anyone work out a trade arrangement with us to supply us with VoT, New Worlds and maybe some back issues of those titles, Impulse and Science Fantasy -- and SF Adventures and Nebula. Let us know and we'll let you know what back issues we need; but we've never seen the New Wave New Worlds or VoT. ## Dan Adkins has an assignment to do 900 pages (!) of educational/propaganda comicbooks for the U.S. Army. He offered Steve Stiles a job helping him, but Steve turned it down rather than move to East Liverpool, Ohio. But, Steve, we would have been practically neighbors. ## Walt Disney Productions' "It's Tough to Be a Bird," produced & directed by Ward Kimball, won the Oscar as best cartoon. Runners-up were Ryan Larkin's "Walking" and John & Faith Hubley's "Of Men and Demons."

GUEST EDITORIAL (Jerry De Fuccio): "Last Sunday, I took a stroll in New Jersey, passing through three towns: Bayonne, Jersey City, Union City. Do you know that all the candy store-cigar store outlets that could be counted on for extensive comic book racks have all vanished? My own source, on a very busy bus stop corner in Jersey City, has cleared out all comic books after 40 years of indulgence. They constitute "too much handling, too little interest, and take up vital space that can otherwise be occupied by specialty mags on cycling, scuba and (get this) Arizona Highways." Tell me it isn't time for a new 75-cent package of edifying comic continuity, starting with good page rates for writers so they can do some story line plotting."

Top title for each publisher: Mad (1,884,502); Archie (515,356); Superman (511,984); Spider-Man (373,303); Dennis the Menace (318,577); Tarzan (283,968); Popeye (205,015).

Circulation increases over 30,000: Mad (up 52,854); Cheyenne Kid (up 37,709); Ghostly Tales (up 35,910).

Circulation losses over 75,000: Batman (177,668); Superman (124,416); World's Finest (113,497); Tarzan (91,778); Flash (88,583); Justice League (82,774); Jimmy Olsen (81,325).

Once more, let us warn you against over-extrapolation from these figures. However, this is the first year when circulation losses overwhelmed the field so thoroughly (Charlton--improved distribution?--the only real winner). Figures are, as usual, total paid circulation.

OBITUARIES

Jim Holdaway, the artist who has drawn Modesty Blaise for the Evening Standard for the past seven years, died in the hospital February 18; he was in his early 40's. He suffered a coronary thrombosis two days previously, while driving with his wife and two young children. Modesty began her adventures in May 1963--and has always been drawn by Holdaway, at the request of Peter O'Donnell, the strip's author. "In my opinion he was the greatest strip cartoonist. I may sound corny, but we never had a cross word," said O'Donnell. Holdaway won the Cartoonists' Club 1964 award as the best straight strip cartoonist of the year, and his strip is syndicated to 73 newspapers throughout the world. The 2076th strip appeared the day of his death. There are six weeks' stock in hand, and another artist will now be tried out.

Rome Siemon, Gold Key's West Coast longtime lettering man, died a few months ago; since then, some artists have been doing their own lettering, while such people as Bill Spicer have been filling in for others.

H. M. Bateman died recently, shortly before his 83rd birthday. This British cartoonist was known for his "The Man Who..." series and for his many-panelled sequence cartoons. (Some have been reprinted recently here--in Mad #28 and #32 and in Help! #1, #3, #6, and #19.) Possibly his most famous is "The One-Note Man," a 58-panel opus (which was shrunk to 34 panels when reprinted in Thomas Craven's Cartoon Cavalcade). His work appeared in the teens and twenties of this century--much of it in Punch. (Initials stand for Henry Mayo B.)

MISCELLANY Ken Wong points out that (Contrary to the comment in Sub-Mariner #25's lettercol) JWCampbell has been writing sf appearing in magazines since 1930. %% Zody, a comic strip drawn by Marvin O. Myers (Soft Sell Sam, Phyllis Diller), began syndication from United Feature Syndicate March 2. %% Kim Weston wonders about the audience of the "West Coast mag devoted to Frank Frazetta's art." "I came across a store in Wilson, N.C. that had about 5 copies of the $2 'Frazetta' fanzine for sale, sitting between the 'woman's sweat' magazines such as Confidential and the confessions magazines on one side and the 'men's sweat' adventure and girly magazines on the other side." %% Klas Reimers, Hedinsgatan 11, Stockholm, SWEDEN, wants the following Donald Duck one-shots in very good/mint condition: 29 62 108 159 197. If you have one or more and want to sell, please write him and say what you want for them. %% Fan Art Scott has finished school and gone to work in the lucrative fields of industry. He says Dan O'Neill (Odd Bodkins) has a big book out--Hear the Sound of My Feet Walking, Hear the Sound of My Voice Talking, "worth the $4." Can anyone tell us more about this?
