AUTUMN

AUTUMN

Cover by Turnip.

The theme of this tale is in the best tradition of THE FOX AND THE FOREST, MR KOWTSHOOK, and Jack Finney's SUCH INTERESTING NEIGHBOURS, the story of the hunted attempting to settle in an alien society. Here for the first time is the story given a fannish twist ...

IERMINUS 2156 merency

Wilbur Theodore Hemingway parked his car and entered the club rooms of the Steelingham Science Fiction Society. His stepping into the main lounge caused an immediate and gratifying pause in conversation. He glanced round the smoke-filled room. The walls were adorned with the trophies of international fandom and past conventions...the original Tubb hammer, photos, a bust of Walt Willis in emerald green, a beard, water-pistols, a propellor beanie, a duplicator, a copy of NIRVANA, a bottle top, a letter from Ashworth to Bradbury ...

Harry Rimmer offered him a drink. They began to discuss the latest books in the fantasy field ... "Really an enlargement of something he did for Voice of the Imagination"..."all about rats ruling the world"..."Gillings told me"..."New Worlds when it was a fanzine"... "Shaver"... The old names, those old stories (When good stories were good stories and crud was crud).. "nowadays you can't tell the difference"...flowed like Vargo Statten stories ... "A 1940 Astounding for only 18/6"...a basement full of them"...a whole file in the British Museum"..."and Bennett seems to be his prophet..."In the Sunday Observer"..."Mene Mene Tekel..."...

The two Big Namo Fans reminisced, happily aware that by this time the entire gathering was hanging expectantly on the golden thread of their very words. Dick Storey nudged his neighbour. A new memeber he wanted to ask what most of it was about. Stan Moore turned and whispered an explanation, "I say, Wilb. meet Dick Storey cur latest member. Dick's only been with us a fortnight." "Say, pleased to meet you, Dick, "effused Wilbur. "Only sorry I missed you last week...business, Y'know...Never start to work...no time for fanning...haha...you must come up some time and have a browse through my collection ... I think we can manage to get you into the house . . . as it is I've to sleep in the garage . . . haha . . . "

And so the evening passed, a happy mixture of condescension, admiration, and friendliness. Above all friendliness.

Towards ten o'clock the gathering, prossed by liscensing laws, broke up. "Where do you live, "Wilbur asked Dick goodnaturedly, "Can I drop you anywhere?"

"I only live at Brotherton, "Dick told him.
"I'll drop you then, "decided Wilbur, putting aside all refusal, "I'm going up to my sister's. She lives a mile or two further out on the Brotherton Road."

The powerful car sped westward towards Brotherton. Wilbur was trying to bring his fandom-conditioned conversation down to the neo-level of the club's latest addition. This was merely superficial wordage, perfunction in passing the time. Happy discourse on trurandom had passed for another week. (you're dead right. This is page 4)

DITURING: IN SPEAKI

Here at last is the second issue of PLOY. Unlike the tradition. al editorial opening I make no apology for the delay in producing the mag. In addition to being at College and therefore having other demands on my time, I thought it best that I wait until I had something worth producing. I hope you will agree that thish has been worth waiting for. The mag is still definitely on an irregular basis because of these reasons and will remain so at least until I have finished with College, or College has finished with me. I can only promise that number three will appear. I think it only fair under the circumstances not to accept subscriptions for PLOY 3, at least for the time being, but if you want to be put on the mailing list for the next issue, please write and let me know.

As I am at College and am putting this out whilst under the cloud of receiving a grant of only £7 per year, I must state that it is of necessity to me that my losses should be as small as possible, and therefore there will be no free(or complimentary) copies of PLOY from and including this second issue. Every copy must be paid for in eash or kind. Excluding contributors, who have paid in the form of material, every copy will cost the reader one shilling (1/-) or the latest copy of any promag, excluding the BRE's. Fan-zine exchanges are also out, as I not only readthem all down at the LSFA, but give them all good reviews in ORBIT, which ought to make the editors grateful. As many fen will receive this issue of PLOY without prior notice or warning of any kind it is only fair to state that if they can find any grumble in this pricing system let them ployse return their copy unread.

Letters of comment are welcome. State which featured you liked best. It is proposed that the perpetrator of the most popular item will receive a prize, as will also the readur whose analysis compares with the final listing. Each prize will take the form of an Amarican promag.

In order to ensure that PLOY prints only the best from the best,

contributions for future issues will be by INVITATION ONLY.

Sincere thanks are extended to all those who have made this issue possible, also to all the fen who chose to confuse me with title-suggestions for the mag...BOOGO, TYPO, REJECT, SYLUS, RAYBID (ray Bradbury Digest), B-Off, Hell, Sploosh and Messi:

News from these parts is that the Leeds S.F.A. has moved from the Adelphi and that Mal Ashworth has had a crewcut. Could there be a connection? What ever happened to that FISSION-ORDIT exchange? ... Rumour has it that a BNF here and a BNF on the other side of the Irish Sea have fallen out...Liverpool mob advocating a fannish gettogether at the seaside ... OMPA has had a successful beginning ... no. I did NOT keep a copy of BURP and would be grateful if anyone could let me have his ... Ray Bradbury is writing a new book for Doubleday and is re-editing Dark Carnival for Ballantine. My own Bradcollection is up to the 100 mark.... Hope you enjoy the ish. sac Ran Bernett

BRIAN FIRST

"Oh, no. not ANOE ER fanzine?"
You will probably exclaim.
"Not another nec-fan-ed
Out in search of fame?
Not another silly follow
On the grab for Ego-boo
A mere 'potential INF'?
Ny Ghod' This day he'll rue...
I suppose I'd better open it
And quickly skim it through
I haven't time to read it now
I've something else to do.
I suppose he's on the grab for subs;
They always seen to be.
The mystery that I can't unfold
Is why they pick on me.
Perhaps hetthinks I'm just a twerp,
Whe'll part with ready cash
But anyway, I've not time now,
I'll really have to dash—
But wait! Suppose he thinks I'm known?
A sort of Dig Name Fan..?
It's not improbable, you know,
I'm quite an actifan...
If I wasn't so rushed these days
I'd really go to town!
Contribute to Exphen...
Turn Fundon upside down!
I'd really na'e grachf a Hene
The others couldn't match.
I'd hoad grachf with Fannish Pane,
So need to start from seratch;
I guess I'm pretty well-known now,
Fling modesty aside!
You're fidding no-one, pal, you're food
This fact they can't deride. You're hidding no-one, pal, you're good This fact they can't deride. So where's my pen? This fan-ed needs Some really sound advice; In sending me his fanzine new.
He's thrown some luc'y dice;
A letter now, some comment fair Would really seen in order, accord was But first-I'll just pop down the street To buy a Postal Order."

MPRESSIONS

PLOYN SPEAKING

Here at last is the second issue of PLOY. Unlike the traditional editorial opening I make no apology for the delay in producing the mag. In addition to being at College and therefore having other demands on my time, I thought it best that I wait until I had something worth producing. I hope you will agree that thish has been worth waiting for. The mag is still definitely on an irregular basis because of these reasons and will remain so at least until I have finished with College, or College has finished with me. I can only promise that number three will appear. I think it only fair under the circumstances not to accept subscriptions for PLOY 3, at least for the time being, but if you want to be put on the mailing list for the next issue, please write and let me know.

As I am at College and am putting this out whilst under the cloud of receiving a grant of only £7 per year, I must state that it is of necessity to me that my losses should be as small as possible, and therefore there will be no free(or complimentary) copies of PLOY from and including this second issue. Every copy must be paid for in each or kind. Excluding contributors, who have paid in the form of material, every copy will cost the reader one shilling (1/-) or the latest copy of any promag, excluding the BRE's. Fanzine exchanges are also out, as I not only readthem all down at the LSFA, but give them all good reviews in ORBIT, which ought to make the editors grateful. As many fen will receive this issue of PLOY without prior notice or warning of any kind it is only fair to state that if they can find any grumble in this pricing system let them ployse return their copy unread.

Letters of comment are welcome. State which featured you liked best. It is proposed that the perpetrator of the most popular item will receive a prize, as will also the readur whose analysis compares with the final listing. Each prize will take the form of an Amarican promag.

In order to ensure that PLOY prints only the best from the best,

contributions for future issues will be by INVITATION ONLY.

Sincere thanks are extended to all those who have made this issue possible, also to all the fen who chose to confuse me with title-suggestions for the mag...BOOGO, TYPO, REJECT, SYLUS, RAYBID

(ray Bradbury Digest), B-Off, Hell, Sploosh and Messi

News from these parts is that the Leeds S.F.A. has moved from the Adelphi and that Mal Ashworth has had a crewcut. Could there be a connection? What ever happened to that FISSION-ORDIT exchange?
...Rumour has it that a DNF here and a BNF on the other side of the Irish Sea have fallen out...Liverpool mob advocating a famnish gettogether at the seaside...ONPA has had a successful beginning...no. I did NOT keep a copy of BURP and would be grateful if anyone could let me have his...Ray Bradbury is writing a new book for Doubleday and is re-editing Dark Carnival for Ballantine. My own Bradcollection is up to the 100 mark...Hope you enjoy the ish.

ORTRAIT OF A FAN

I am a Small Name Fan and though I do most earnestly aspire to rise to trufanship, or even higher,
I greatly fear I cannot since the first requisite (aside from a due appreciation of the more exquisite esoterisms) is that these should truthfully boast an ignorance sublime of the sciencefiction of our present time whereas I read ALL the BRE's.

I am a considerate fan.

It is not, therefore, my present intention to bore you with reports of the Convention which recently took place in Manchester, nor do I wish it to appear as if I were the favoured pet of Bheer (whose ways are mysteries beyond description); yet one thing happened which was most exciting and a thing no other fan can boast CHUCK HARRIS PAID ME A SUBSCRIPTION:

I am a generous fan, lending pro- and fanzines left and right with gay abandon, contributing freely to any fancause Varley can't get his hand on, subsidising ORION rather than overcharge for it, and yet I had no slightest expectation that such was being noised abroad, establishing my reputation among the rest of fandom although it must be so, else otherwise why, instead of buying 0 should some fans(damn their eyes!)

HAVE HELPED THEMSELVES AT RANDOM?

(more overleaf...)

page 6

Paul Enever's epic PORTRAIT of a FAN, continued from overleaf....

I am a venerable fan,
being well set in fannish ways, by heck !
before St. Hugo handed on to Teck Amazing Stories and himself began to Wonder (and shortly after take the Air); so it's not surprising I should feel as though I'm living some old dream
when Vargo Statten, with a joyous pride, announces he'll take fandom for a ride on this quaint 'League of Science Fiction' scheme !

I am an absent-minded fan, or - to be semantically pure - I forget things that happened not so long ago (and yet I can remember SFN);
thus, having paid a certain modest due to OF's agent at the Loncon, 1952, entitling me for one whole year to read the Hand and Books of Captain Slater,
I am surprised when, two years later he tells me I'm a few weeks in arrear i

I am a disillusioned fan.

It seemed the heighth of felicity when the postman called again and again and again.

Eagerly did I scan the mail for its content of egoboo (and frequently found it, too) but such rapture brings its own dismay - I very soon detected a horrid sameness in these letters: I'm expected TO ANSWER THE THINGS.

KRADOVE stanza dedicated dedicatorily to George Gibson--RMBYY

I am a garrulous fan, finding it all too easy to say less and less about more and more, I must confess.
This time my Remington ran on and on with little heed of me (my Rem's no sense of rhythm, as you see) and in consequence
this new idea in columns(which is the first) may well turn out to be the last because - hell !
it's totally devoid of sense.

It is one of Fandom's most admirable qualities that it does not take itself too seriously and can laugh at its faults. The writer of the Dashcon Report is again in satirical mood:

IN THE BEGINNING...

Mickey had everything planned to a nicety.

Wednesday was early-closing day at the shop and he had sprinted home, gulped his dinner and managed to borrow his father's typewriter, thus bringing off a coup' for which he had been subtly preparing for the previous three weeks. He had locked himself in his bedroom, oblivious to the blazing summer sun outside the window, in order to avoid disturbances and had begun to type. He typed slowly, with one finger, copying meticulously even the meanest comma from the pages of longhand scrawl at his side and as he tapped each key with a measured weight, he smiled to himself with an artist's satisfaction at his work.

Just over two months ago he had read his first fanzine. It had been just readable enough and just amateurish enough to what his appetite for more and since then he had subscribed to eight fanzines, and had received, and read, six of them. At first, when he read the editors' pleas for material, he had said to himself, "I think I'll write for them just to see what happens" and had smiled at his little joke. Then, one week ago, evolution had done its work and in a sudden flash of insight he had thought seriously for the first time about writing an article for publication. Once that link in the chain had been reached only a world-wide calamity could have prevented the project being completed. He had bought a notebook and several hundred sheets of typing paper and had spent every spare moment at the shop, in writing or polishing his article. Words had been deleted, commas had been added, sheets had been thrown away and paragraphs had been crossed out. The notebook had been filled early in the week and he had taken to doing his writing on loose sheets of writing paper. The copy from which he was transcribing the opic into type was only his fourth full revision though. The title had given him a little trouble at first but after missing the Saturday afternoon football match and the Sunday evening Jazz concert he had finally decided on "What a Martian Would Really Look Like." It had a flavour of erudition, about it and, he felt, would catch the eye easily and pleasantly.

Although he was unfamiliar with typewriting it gave him little trouble really as he had discovered that by taking things slowly and selecting beforehand the key which he wished to hit, his percentage of mistakes was not unduly pare D high. In any event he had bounkt two typing erasors the day before and he made absolutely sure to rub out every small error and every tiny scudge. He remembered reading somewhere that editors were influenced by the appearance of a manuscript and that seemed only remonable after all.

It took him the whole astermoon to type his four page article, togother with the neutly spaced bitle-page giving the enact mumber of words, and the enclosing letter beginning, "Dear Sir...", and when he came to preparing the storped, anddressed envelope and Colding the whole ting nectly, after affining the letter with a paper-clip, he was definitely being obliged to hurry. To unlocked his door and raced out of the house and up the street to the nearest pillar-box just in time to beat the collecting van. He walked home slowly, ate his ted rather breathlessly and spent the evening rereading the article six or seven times. He felt in all honesty that he had made quite a good job of it and that it was, without boing impodest, at least as good as many of the other articles he had read in his finzines. Some of them seemed quite pointless and often had little, if anything, to do with sciencefiction. He took out his fanzine collection and compared his piece with every article he could find in the magazines; it stood up to the comparison remarkably well.

Thursday was quite a pleasant day but it dragged interminably. Friday norning Mickey awoke half an hour earlier than usual, jumped out of bed feeling fit and vigorous, and prepared for the day ahead with gusto and a spirit which rather baffled his parents. Although he was ready to leave ten minutes before his usual time, he deliber tely missed his bus and instead stood at the gate until the postman arrived. Mickey walled back to the door and handed his mother the electicity bill and the postcard from Auntie Sarah. There was nothing else and Friday was a black day.

Ho post arrived for Mickey on Saturday either but he had half prepared himself for that and smiled bravely, as he might have done had he had an arm amputated and wished to appear courageous, telling himself that after all editors would be immosely busy people and might not get around to dealing with some of their mail for two, even three days.

THERE IS 10 G100 LIVE TOTCE AND CONTENTED IN TIEFT PROPERT --Cecil.

published and had either intercepted his manuscript. or the editor's letter enthusing over the article and asking him to do a whole series of them. Mickey wasn't sure what he ought to do about the plot although he felt that he ought to do something. He decided to give them another few days before he wrote to the local M.P.

Two weeks later Mickey realised that what had in actual fact happened was that the fan editor had been tremendously impressed with the article and had decided to put out a special issue with "What a Martian Would Really Look Like" in the star place and giving the article a wonderful 'write-up' telling his readers to expect to see more of the work of this outstanding young author very shortly. For some reason, Mickey wasn't quite sure what, there had been a hitch in the production of the magazine and consequently the only thing to do was wait until it did arrive. It was certainly going to be worth waiting for.

When a month had passed since the pillar-box swallowed his almost legendary manuscript Mickey knew for certain that the faneditor had sold Mickey's story to a professional magazine under his own name and obviously intended to act as though the story had never arrived, thus reaping quite a large profit from the considerable price which the article would have fetched from a professional editor. (For just one fleeting instant Mickey wondered why he himself hadn't sent the article to a professional magazine in the first place.). Mickey recognised the fact that there was nothing he could do about having his story stolen in that way as he could not prove that he had ever sent it to the editor. A cynical, ambittered Mickey resolved never again to send away any material for publication without first taking steps to protect his copyright.

Six weeks after originally posting the article Mickey just didn't know what had happened to it and considered calling on the faneditor in person to find out if he had received the manuscript. He couldn't quite see how he would manage this though as he couldn't afford the fare for the two hundred mile journey without saving up for another six weeks and anyway his only full day away from the shop was Sunday.

Mickey really had little hope of the article being traced after two months had elapsed and he wasn't very bothered about it by now anyway but he wrote a short note to the fameditor asking if he had received it and if he had and he hadn't been able to use it would he please send it back? The same day that Mickey had intended posting his letter the first copy of that particular fanzine to arrive since the fateful day, plopped on the mat. His breath caught in his throat as he pulled the magazine out of the wrapper and hastily scanned the contents page. Mickey had stood quite a lot of suffering and bewilderment with reasonable fortitude during the past two months but when he failed to find his name on the contents page that was page 10 would be bard been bards bleight just a little too much for him to understand. In a daze he picked up the minate sliver of paper which had slipped from between the magazine's pages and strained to read the abominable scrawl written across it. "Thanks for your article. Will be using it in our next but one ish," it said.

For one moment the path of Mickey's life was in the balance as the image of his bicycle and a long, quite ride in the country tempted him; then he stole upstairs, furtively borrowed his father's typewriter and started his second article.

Il Something about the Saints going Martian In ... // and here continued from page four is an epic piece of blurp.... Ben Morency's epic TERMINUS 2156 ...

"And so, Mr. Hemingway, "Dick was saying?" I was wondering if I might write something for your fanzine, Crudbin. "

"Of course, Dick," said Wilbur," Why not? As long as it's good I'll print it, though of course I'm already two issues overdue. Still I'll get round to it. What exactly did you have in mind?"

"Oh, just a piece of fiction. A skit on fandom. All about a Science-Fiction club which is very proud of its associations, and especially its own Big Name Fan. Right at the end of the story he turns out to be really a Venusian Grezord who escaped the Blockade, which is, perhaps, why he's such an expert on life on other plantes."

Wilbur Theodore Hemingway had turned a deathly pale. He stopped the car. "A Venusian what-did-you-say? How did...?"

He was too slow in reaching towards his pocket, Storey was pointing a thin cylinder towards him. "I think you heard me correctly the first time, 2156. Don't you think we had better be going? We have a long journey ahead of us." He now spoke in a tongue which was strange and alien. His companion evidently understood every word; he shook noticeably then hung his head resignedly.

Neither Wilbur Theodore Hemingway nor Dick Storey were ever seen or heard of again. The police found the car empty in the morning. the end.....

AlThis story carries the moral "Never trust your own Grand-Mother, she may be a Venusian Grezord" and is dedicated with all good wishes to J. Michael Rosenblum, a Leeds neo-fanyy. asy Judy egong sineinos edi no eman aid bhil bi belisi ed nedw page 20.

"THE UN PUBLISHABLE EDITOR AND THE PRINTABLE FANS..."

VINC CLARKE

"Write whatever you want to" says Ron, in a generous, openhanded and trusting way which will lead to him becoming one of the nicest people in Dartmoor if he's extended the same invitation to some other faans I know. But, firmly resisting the impulse to fill up this page with 4-letter Anglo Saxonisms, I'll just be my usual responsible self, and the first(and, to tell you the truth, the only) thing that seems worth a few words in a new fanzine at the present time is...new fanzines.

It seems to me that fanzine publishing is ceasing to be the simple, unsophisticated thing that it once was, and is moving forward with all the grim and relentless acumen and energy which the prozine puts into a search for hard cash. I find something vaguely depressing about the present state of fan-publing in this country and I'd like to try and pin it down.

Broadly speaking fanzines can be divided into two simple main categories; those under the heading of club magazines and official organs, and the free-lance, published-for-pleasure type. The former acts as an adhesive to hold the club together; the latter is for fun...period. But, casting a somewhat bewildered and bleary eye around the fanzine field, what do we find?

We find in the first place that most club magazines are unashamedly 'national'. I wouldn't be a bit surprised to find a letter in the post tomorrow from the Aberystwyth H.G. Wells Club asking me to contribute to their club magazine. I wouldn't be startled if the next Isle of Skye S-F Bulletin had stories by Willis, Wansborough and Shirley Marriot in it. It seems to me that directly a couple of fans get together to form a local society, they immediately say "Well, none of us can write..let's ask X to help. he lives 150 miles away but it's the same country." The outstanding example of this trend in recent times is, of course, the late lamented SPACE TIMES, which, starting as a club magazine, rapidly extended its boundaries until, not only were its contributors from every part of the country excepting its own nominal area, but at the end it was being edited and published some 200 miles outside. This is, of course, an extreme case; it can be balanced by the striking clubbiness (in the best sense of the word) of the MEDWAY JOURNAL, which is a strictly local 'zine and a good one.

The fact remains, though; those magazines which are supposed to be the official organs of certain clubs and societies are not only indulging in a form of deceit when contributions are solicited from outside the club; they are doing a dis-service to their own members. There are very few people who can write at even the friendly he's-split-an-infinitive-what-of-it level of the fanzine world at the first attempt. What chance has young Joe Mudfoot of seeing his work in duplicating ink when some smooth BNF is spreading himself all over the village zine? I can understand the impulse that moves an editor of one of those cry-in-the -wilderness-publications to be known as Editor of The Stow-in-the -Wold Fantasy Gazette, with subbers from Brisbane to Weyauwega, but it's still a Bad Thing for fan writing as a whole that this

Why do you publish a fanging nov ob will particular ambition is so prevalent.

We turn, gracefully I hope, to the independent magazine, and find an even greater alteration from The Old Days. Then, a fan with an urge to join in the fun would start writing for other magazines first, finding his literary feet, getting to know what went on in the fan world and learning some of the long background of fan-publing by borrowing old 'zines. After he'd learnt some of the spirit of fan-pubbing, and if he had the money to do so, and if he was dissatisfied with all the other fan-publications, etc., then he would invest in a duplicator, usually a flat-bed, and start churning out his own. The first number he'd write himself (or with a little help from a couple of friends) and he'd give it away to everyone he knew, for free, The second number he'd be receiving more help, and he'd be able to sell some, and the third would slip into its niche as a regular Fanzine with a definite personality...that of the editor. He'd still write for it; it would still be his, and not guided very much by the readers.

This is, of course, an 'Ideal' pattern, and I'm not saying it was followed by any except the earliest zines, but in the last few years there have been very few fanzine editors who have followed it at all, especially in the ... I would have thought natural...entry by contributing to some other independent | zine first. Willis and Lee Hoffman, editors of the two most famous fanzines of recent years, wrote their first issues alone, but as far as I know neither had contributed to any other 'zine before. In fact, as far as my knowledge goes, no British post-war fanzine editor with the exception of Mal Ashworth and this magazine's editor, contributed material to another fanzine before issuing one himself!

I'm not implying that this is some terrible crime; I'm not saying that it's wrong to fill up your first issue with old-time fan writers and only leave yourself the editorial in which to show that your magazine is different from any other; you can even ask people to sub to you before you publish, with the proviso that if you don't get enough subs you don't publish (Now, why didn't I think of that?-Ronaldy). It doesn't matter all that much to me. But it's a decidedly curious state of affairs.

One of the causes may be the Cult of the B.N.F. Once upon a time, fans became active for fun. for the hell of it. They wanted to write, they wanted to spread their opinions around, they wanted to enjoy themselves, and they didn't care whether it was in their own fanzine or in someone else's. But in the last few years, a thing that began as a joke. the awe-inspiring Big Name Fan with his prospects of immortality in the annals of fandom ... has ceased to be a joke. Neo-fans have the impression that the sole purpose of fanning is to become known... to be a B.N.F. And there are few (if you really want to continue try page 20.)

Much has been said lately on the subject of fan reprints. What ever your views will not prevent you from enjoying this classic piece which first saw print(literally) in the September 1952 edition of the COSMAG/SEDIGEST and is reproduced here by kind(?) permission of its author.

THE JOURNEY OF THE VACUUMETERRY

TEEVES BEETLE

The planet was lonely and dark as it swung on its path through space. Lonely, because it was the only offspring of a dark start, and dark, due to an absence of light. Righ on the rocky ridge sat Gei-ga, one of the few remaining lifeforms on the planet. For many toks, he had been trailing the life odour emanating from a gaym. The gaym creatures were becoming scarcer, and in consequence, so was the source of Bhul which Gei-ga's stomach craved. Well he remembered the days when he and his brethren would flock to the hunting grounds, pass through the turnstiles to the accompanying 'click-click' of the Gei-ga counter, and then they would see the gaym. Those days were gone and it looked as though Gei-ga would follow them unless a new source of Bhul appeared.

Then it happened. A roaring filled the air, a sleek black spheroid screamed over the gooli bushes, there was a flash, and as dei-ga's eyes readjusted, the object settled to the ground. He fearlessly approached it in time to see a recantangle of light appear in the sphere, and out stepped four dumpy figures. Gei-ga's tendrils stiffened...here was bhul, bags of bhul in fact. If only he could get aboard this craft, both he and the precious contents of his cranium would be saved.

Nolton, skripper of the Vacuum Beetle, gazed around as he stepped from the ship. Suddenly he saw Gei-ga. To holton, he looked like a very large flower. Nolton stepped forward and plucked the 'flower', only to find it needed no glucking. Instead of roots, it had coarse tendrils, apparently a means of locomotion, possibly for movement as well. It the top, two finer tentacles appeared, surrounted by a large ball. "That do you make of it Juanita?" he asked. The Russian grunted, "Harmless, let's put it in the jan jar in the ness room."

One hour leter, a crew nember was found smeared to the mess room ceiling. A search for hiding places disclosed three more, alltreated with the same smear technique. Cophlmaw, the only Neckist on board, pronounced then dead, and after K-raying their bodies with a miltiple Singloscope, called the skipper. Molton, this is not stuff, these men haven't a trace of brain metter left in their bodies. Mither someone in intelligence slipped up, or our little Pansy has done it. I suggest we kill the thing." Molton was not skipper for nothing, he drew 263 a year. His trained brain quickly sumed up, and he explained to dophinaw, that no crew man was expected to have brains, that the smearing was part of an undercover campaign to discredit him, and that Gophimaw was bariing up the wrong plant. He spat out the last, and Gophinaw wired a tear from his eye, and began to act. He immediately hypnotised the crew by means of a Vogtometer, and set out to catch Pansy. He toured the ship, and returned to find it picking the Captain's brains. With great presence of mind, he threw a handy bucket of weed killer over the monstrosity. Gei-ga calmly planted a cranium cell in the shipper's remains, and attacked Gophinaw. The latter grabbed a Tommy-Gun from a hook on the wall and let Gei-ga have it. Gei-ga refused to be bribed by gifts and chased Gphlmaw down the corridor. The Neckist snatched a half brick from his pocket and hurled it at Gei-ga with no effect. Passing through the hydroponic garden, he scattered a handful of radioactive dust behind him. Gei-ga chattered in anger, but still came on. He next tried a baseball bat, a hand grenade, and a pair of the cook's socks. All to no avail, Gei-ga still came on. As a last resort, Cophknay energised all the floors, ceilings and walls, first putting on dry socks to avoid energising himself. Geiga copied him and continued to advance. Wearer and nearer he crept. Gophimaw pressed back against the wall, something burned into his back. Reaching behind him, he grasped the object and waved it in Gei-ga's face. It was a fanzine, the name PLOY blazed on its cover. Gei-ga took one look, screamed and shrivelled up...no wonder thought Gophinaw as he fainted, fell to the floor and bashed in his shull on the carpet. He never recovered, so the crew of the Vacuum Beetle are still in hypnosis.

(yeo, the end)

A Checklist is usually an item which is welcomed avidly by the fanatic or ignored completely by the disinterested. How YOU receive this is your own affair. This article is published as a work of art for its thoroughness. That it will be invaluable to collectors is without doubt...

ABBLIOGRAPH SACK

When invited by Ron to conjure up an article on fantasy for PLOY. an article dealing with the amount of fantasy in present day science-fiction. I promptly sent him a blank quarto. Of course he wasn't a bit nonplussed over this, being fully aware of his grammatical mistake. Rather deflated, I thought, hell'!

(This was nearly PLOY) I'll still be awkward and give him a Bibliography. I like Bibliographies don't you?  I liked the one in the Ray Bradbury Review', Jack -- Ron  Cood! Now that that's settled let us rabid collectors gather round David No Keller M.D., Associate Editor of the old Wonder Stories and a director of the S.F. League.

Alphabetically placed and including those written under the pseudonym Ary North are the following titles by this old master of the Cenre...

| Adm 7dwar | Amandra Chambra | 700 7000 |
|--|--|--|
| Air lines | Amazing Stories | Jan 1930 |
| Ambidenter, The | Amoging Stories | Apr 1931 |
| Aunt Martha | NG DU MOGUTA | 1.895 |
| Battle of the Toads | The Metra rafes | Oct 1929 |
| Bindings de Luxe | Maryel, Tales | Hear 1934 |
| mnT. Pol | Weird Inles | Hey 1934 Jan 1943 |
| Birth of a Soul. The | The White Owl nt. A Amazing Stories | Jan 1902 Jua 1928 Jul 1929 Jul 1929 |
| Biological Experimen | nt. A Amazing Stories | Jua 2,928 |
| Bloodless War, The | 'Air Wonder Stories | Jul 1029 |
| Boneless Horror, The | Science Wonder Stories | Jul 1929 |
| 201102000 1102202 12110 | Startling Stories | Nov 1941 |
| estoratusmico Assar | Life Everlasting (Anth) | 1947 |
| Boomononging Bound | | Fall 1930 |
| Boomeranging Round | Olig Mooti | |
| D- 4 3 - 11.99 Mb - | Amazing Stories Quarter | 0.0 :000 |
| Bride Well, The | Weird Tules | Det 1930 |
| Bridle, The | 110777 01 407700 | Sept 1942 |
| Burning Water | Amazing Detective Stori | |
| cro E falo, Falify, helico | The Pantonian The Retu | June 1930 |
| Calypso Island S | tirring Science Stories | Apr 1941 |
| Cerebral Library. The | e. Amazing Stories | May 1931 |
| STATES STATES | Life Everlasting (Anth) | 1947 |
| Chestnut Mare, The | | mmer 1940 |
| | Uncanny Stories (Titlech | angel |
| Asmer sales of | O110that, 2001 70 0 17 7 0 10 0 11 | Apr 1941 |
| Conquers, The | Science Wonder Stories | |
| conquers, me | | |
| Common Clos Miss Finds | | Jan 1930 |
| COSMOS.CHZ, THE EMIG | rants, New York 1933, supp | rement to |
| A 10 10 17 A 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 | S.F.Diges | |
| Creation Unforgivab | le. Weird Tales | April 1930 |
| Damsel & Her Cat, Th | e. Weird Tales | Apr 1929 |
| Dead Woman, The. | real ocial richards | サンフェーアンフェム |
| | Stronge Stonies | Apr 1939 · |
| | Nightmare by Daylight.L | ondon1936 |
| | Life Everlasting (Anth) Weird Tales | 1947 |
| Death of the Kraten | Weird Tales | Mar 7 942 |
| Devil & The Doctor. | The Sinon & Schuster Ne Weird Tiles | Tr You't Olio |
| Dogs of Solam | Water Than | Sept 1928 |
| Door, The | Arkhan Sampler Fix | mmer 1.949 |
| Dooming I 1110 | Monday Standay | 15494 7 0 7)1 |
| Doorbell, The | Wonder Stories | Jun 1934 |
| Dust in the House | Weird Tales | Jul 1938 |
| Eight, Sixty-Seven | Ten Story Book | Nov 1929 |
| Eternal Professors, T | | Aug 1929 |
| Dec | | tumn 1938 |
| Eternal Conflict, Th | | ecolii. |
| trell with with any the below | July Aug, Sept, A Oct | 1939 |
| A STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE PAR | Primo Press | 1949 |
| | | |
| | | |

| E I | | filth fift from when a | | |
|---------------|-------------------------------------|--|---------|--------------|
| Page 16 | AL I Rivey o'nob a | oldgarpolidti efti I . wige | | |
| All of Filoso | Euthanasia, Ltd. | Amazing Stories Quarterly | 7a11 | 1929 |
| a bon p | Evening Satr, The | Science Monder Stories Apr | collay | 1930 |
| | Feminine Metamorph | The Life Everlasting(Antl | 1) | 1947 |
| | - CALLES INC COMOL PIR | | A110 | 1929 |
| | Fireless Age. The | Amazing Stories Augo | Oct | 1937 |
| | Flying Fool, The | Amazing Stories | Jul | 1929 |
| | Pleater Manach Mi | Les Premieres July | Aug | 1937 |
| | Flying Threat. The Free As The Air | Amazing Stories Quarterly | | |
| | Garnet Mine, The | Amazing Stories Ten Story Book | | 1930 1929 |
| | Great American Pie | House The The Muite Owl. | Anr | 1902 |
| | dreamess of buvar, | The Ursinus Weekly | Oct | 1902 |
| | Goddess of Zion, The | . Weird Tales | Jan | 1941 |
| | Golden Bough, The | Marvel Tales(Vol 1 No 3) | NT - c- | 1935 |
| | La refrois | Weird Tales Garden of Fear. Los Ange | YON | 1942 |
| | Growing Wall, The | Science Fiction Quarterly | Win | 10/2 |
| | Half Century of Wri | lting, A. Fantasy Commentato | r.St | right |
| | Half Mile Hill | Amazing Stories Quarterly | Sum | 1931 |
| | Headsman, The Hands of Doom | Ten Story Book | 0-4 | 7027 |
| | Helen of Troy | Ten Detective Magazine The Futurian | | 1937 1939 |
| | Heredity | Life Everlasting | o tar | 1947 |
| 6.0 | Hidden Monster, The | Oriental Stories Sur | mer | 1932 |
| 1000 | Horrible Pantomime | The Scienti-Tales | Jan | 1939 |
| 1,365 | Island of White Mic | Science Wonder Stories, Sep ce, The Amazing Stories | Ucti | 10V39 |
| | Ivy War, The | Amazing Stories | | 1935 |
| | Tangura Tanga agan | Les Premieres. July, Aug & | Sept | 1935 |
| | | La Gueere du Lierre 25 | May | 1936 |
| | T want to be an And | The Best of Science Fiction | | 1946 |
| | Jelly Fish, The | thor. Scientifiction | | 1938 |
| | Judge Not | The Red and Blue | | 1929 1899 |
| | Key to Cornwall, The | . Stirring Science Stories | Feb | 1941 |
| | Keller Interviewed | by Hinself. SFDigest | Jul | 1933 |
| | Last Magician, The Life Detour, The | | | 1932 |
| 1 | , | Wonder Stories Startling Stories | rea | 1935 1947 |
| | Life Eeverlasting | Amazing Stories July & | | |
| | | Life Everlasting (Anth) Aval | on. | 1947 |
| | Lilith's Left Hand | Helios | Oct | 1937 |
| | Little Husbands, The | The Wonder Stories | Jul | 1928 |
| | arterary correction, | | Mar | 1934 1941 |
| | | From Off this World (Anth) | | 1949 |
| 0.007 | Living Maching, The | Wonder Stories | | 1935 |
| | | Weird Tales | Oct | 1937 |
| | Lost Language, The A 1950 Marriage | Amazing Stories Paris Nights | | 1934 |
| | Men of Avalon | (Pamphlet) | | 1939 1935 |
| | Menace, The | | Sum | 1928 |
| | Managina 01 | Ibid. | Win | 1933 |
| | Menacing Claws | Amazing Detective Tales | Bep | 1930 |

| | | | ma in 311 |
|------------|--|--|-------------|
| | tiotal Doom Was | Amazing Detective T. Les.J. | ne q 17 |
| COTTO | Metal Doom, The | The Gallion | 004 1025 |
| | MARCHANIA AZERAN | The Gall on are. Ten Story Dook | Oct 1935 |
| eco fele | Mr. avintiar a Minyon o | Constant a tony mount | Jan 1930 |
| 100 | Moon Artist, The | Cosmic Males | Sun 1939 |
| 200 | Con Col Co | Stirring Science Stories | 1111 1241 |
| 100 | Moon Rays | Wonder Stories Juarterly | Bum 1930 |
| | Mother Newhouse | Wonder Stories quarterly The White Owl Fantascience Digest Stolen Idiots, The | May 1902 |
| | Mother, The | Fantascience Digest | Jan 1930 |
| | Mystery of the 33 | Stolen Idiots. The | I main |
| | | Ten Story Dook | Sep 1932 |
| 95.494 | No Hore Friction | Thrilling Wonder Stories | Jun 1939 |
| | The Home Dawsenson | Amondon Chondon | Dec 1932 |
| | | Life Everlasting Weird Tales Wonder Stories Ten Story Book | 1947 |
| | No Other Men | led no led or | Dec 1929 |
| Teleg | One Mare Tripped | Mondan Stondog | Jan 1935 |
| Cafe r | On Wha Passes | Mon Chair Pools | |
| | On The Reezer Parents, The | Ten blory Doom | Sep 1933 |
| | Parents, ine | | Jan 1931 |
| | Perpetual Moneymod | n, The. Science Fantasy Cor | - |
| 0.000 | | respondent | |
| | and the second second second | Les Penieres | Jun 1930 |
| | Personality of a I | ibrary. The | IJ eenil |
| Z071: | T.Bel | Reading & Collecting | Aug 1937 |
| | Penthouse. The | Amazing Stories | Feb 1932 |
| TEST | Phases of Science | Fiction | Total God |
| 1930 | Internation | 1 Observer of Science & SF | Nov 1935 |
| TEST | | tars. The Mirror | 1097 |
| 1991 | Piece of Linoleun. | A. Zen Story Book | Dec 1933 |
| 1933 | 1 | A. Ten Story Book Life Everlasting Future Fiction Les Premieres te. Amazing Stories | 1947 |
| OF OF | Pite of Down Sho | Parterna 184 oktob | Fob 191:2 |
| 0701 | Donners of | Tog Duendemon | Feb 1937 |
| 7 0150 | Penellanda Muna 78 | Les Premieres ne. Amazing Stories | 1000 |
| 1020 | Payenonie Muras, in | | Nov 1920 |
| 00 1 | D-4 D-41-4 601 | La Guerre du Lierre 2 | 5Nay 1936 |
| A AAL | Rat Racket. The | Amazing Stories | NOA TAR |
| X XAD, SOP | ry, folks/) | a knoden south | Palevinu |
| 1001 | Question, The | Fantastic Worlds (fanzine) | undated. |
| 7377 | Red Death, The | Cosmic Science Stories | Jul 1941 |
| | Revolt of the Pede | strians, the Amazing Otorie | s.Feb1928 |
| A Marie | | Deyond Time&Space(Anth)Ne | wYork19,0 |
| V. 22 | Rider by Hight | The Fantasy Man | Jul 1931 |
| 5.664 | | ad Society. The I.OF. | Jan 1937 |
| | | ood. Scientific Detective N | |
| - 256T | | Target and the second | Feb 1930 |
| 1321 | Seeds of Death | Weird Tales | Jun 1931 |
| | | | ndon 1931 |
| | Serious Error, A | Ten Story Book | Jan 1931 |
| | Service First | Amaning Stories marterly | Win 1931 |
| | DOLATCE TATAL | The Outer Reaches (Anth) | 1952 |
| | Stan of the "sand | | 0.14 c 1020 |
| | Sign of the Burnin | The Tell and Miles | aris 1930 |
| 2001 | Silent One, The | | Nov 1900 |
| | Bleeping War, The | Wonder Stories | Feb 1931 |
| | Solitary limiters | Woird Tales. Jan, Feb & Ha | ren 195 |
| | Steam Shovel, The | Amazing Stories | Sep 1931 |
| 2657 | on vendent all the | in the thing and dail alice to | That odd) |
| | and the second of the second o | TY and has been throng the | I TOJAJEO |
| | rank early of terms | 1644 Jan 100 100 100 1011 | good thès |
| | 1.2.1 | The state of the s | 97 |
| | | | |

| Marin and the second se | tel Doom of a America | 6 |
|--|--|--|
| Stenographer's Man's | Anaring Stories marterly Tales of Sonder No.2. Les Prenieres. Jan, Web & La thue re du Lierre 2! Avon Want at He der Ho.2. Me. Seind Tales Ten Story Dool: e (Parphlet) Los Angeles Voird Tales ton News & West London Time | Fall1920 |
| the state of the state of | Tales of Conder 10.2. | 11000 |
| Control of the contro | rea troureduce junition at | inron1932 |
| To real manual and and | La que re ou Lierre 2 | Juay 1936 |
| ASTRUM BORNORS DOINGS | Avon hime at he der ho.2. | 1547 |
| railed hell of Commail. | Mie. ielig Miles | OA 10.50 |
| rerephone, me | Ten Cory Dool: | Jan 1932 |
| relevision Decocave, The | e (Parmiler) Los Angeles | Han 1930 |
| thing in the Celiar | Weird Tales | Mar 1932 |
| Wood W. 41 | | |
| Tonior Brondes Jun 19 | (Pauphlet) Grin Death | 1940 |
| ST our dev or | Grin Death | 1932 |
| Aug. | The Corone chon Unit bus | ~44 |
| KT bor | Life Everlastingvon Fontasy Reader No.6. | 1547 |
| 20 4 - 2 - 01 A. A | "Nou hangash weader no.o. | 1940 |
| Mird denog tion, Mie | Ten ito: 7 | Sep 1931 |
| Thirty and One, The | L'EVAL LCIALCA SCOT AS | 110V 1930 |
| -don dangung ben | Life Swerlasting | 1947 |
| mou at Projector, whe | (Pasipiller) | 1929 |
| Threat of the Robot, The | .Science Mondan Stories | Jun 1929 |
| Three Link Male, A | The Mite Owl Weird T les | Har 1902 |
| ligor Cat | Woard T les | Jul 1930 Aug 1931 |
| line Projector, The | Wonder tories Jula | Aug 1931 |
| load God, The | Strance Stolies | Jan 1935 |
| lon Cat Reforms, The | Ten Story Dool: | Har 1934 |
| ree of Evil, The | Vonder Stories | Sep 1931; |
| free Terror, The | Amazing Stories | Oct 1933 |
| furn of the theel, The | Ten otor Tool: | Jon 1939 Har 1934 Sep 1934 Oct 1933 Oct 1930 |
| road God, whe Fon Sat Reforms, The Free of Svil, The Free Termor, The Furn of the Theel, The 20th Century Hommoulus | Amazing Stories Prime Press Ten Story Book | Fe: 1530 1949 |
| Twin Seds | Ten Story Book | Jun 1930 |
| Trance of serion tor or | a Ratanaa Maar on Maaar | Har 1.933 |
| Typewriter, The Iniversity Story, A Inlocking the Past Into Head Child is Horn | Fonciful Tales | Fall1935 |
| Iniversity Story, A | Presbyterian Journ 1 | Dec 1901 |
| Inlocking the Past | Anazing Stories | J.1 1928 |
| | | 1117 1033 |
| A masing Dieries. Febl 92 | Life Everlasting | 1997 |
| Calley of ones The | Weird Tales | Jan 1938 |
| Value of Imagination, The Virgin, Wie | e. The Heteor | Jon 1930 Mor 1933 |
| Virgin, the | I G.1 7 CO1 | - GIJ - 10 |
| laters of Letie | (Pauphlet) | 1937 |
| mile collars | AMERICA COPLOS MENTERLY | Sun 1929 |
| linning the Bride | The Lite Ovl | Hor 1902 |
| folf Mollow Dubbles | (Pailinille) | Tork |
| lomen Are That lag- | To Stom Book | Oct 1931 |
| | | a recent |
| ther (thurst seriose) | Strange Ports of Call (Anti | 1948 |
| Dad to C4 tor Sing | 111001100 11001100 | 1 nee 1 0 2 5 |
| least lien, The | Arazing Stories | Apr 1920 |
| res Rep 1831 | Tales of Wonder | urner1937 |
| . Well death o ded and . | Tales from Underwood | 1950 |
| 1931 bop 1931 | Avon Pantasy Reader No.14 | 1950 |
| (The bull of this list | was published in the Fanta | Sy Comme |
| entator 1947 and has be | en brought further to date | iri th |
| That has C4 has bline | Amazing Storics Amazing Storics Tales of Wonder Tales from Underwood Avon Pantasy Reader Mo.14 was published in the Fanta en brought further to date olloctionJS). | 1000 1005 |

Labelled Not to be opened until Emas 1875-a present from Disraeli' and 'Suez Canal Shares' this came through the post bound with blue sibbon and sealed-yes Shaled-with a real old-fashioned seal and cestified 'that the reader must be screvier than the writer, signed Hymer M.M.Diot II. It turned out to be...

Lest Vali ON INDON HARLEY

My name is Major Dhoodnoh. Last might I was sitting in my chota peg drinking a jury when my faithful servent Abdul dashed in. "Mooray, long live rule Drittania poor old Scotland," he said. "Mat the devil ah ah ah do you mean by rushing in like that?" "Well, sah, "he said, a telegraph boy has just been and left in envelope with a messure inside." "Oh, what a pity," I exclaimed. "I can't read a word of Side." mickly ducking for sheltah as the re dors throw their digests, I opened it and read: "Can you be ready to come on a trip to the coon in two days?" If was signed 'Lord Mairy Section.

midtly Packing my space-suit and pausing only to write a five-hundred thousand word dissertation on the habits of the Outer Baldonian square headed crossing zelera, I maked to Seegoon's palatial Missen lat in Delfast.

When I arrived I found he had with him his faithful servants Decles and Dhuebottel, and Professor Henry Krum. Making his obeisances he introduced me to the others and quickly he told me of his plan. We were to look for the Man In The Mooni

He immediately began to load the mat rial for the empedition into the massive aspestos and timfoil rocket which krun had evolved after thirty years research. Eventy-nine had been spent in finding a tree large enough to at as a stick. I read out the supplies we would need from a list supplied by Seegoon 29 hippopotamus-like whips for scor ion beating.

371 pairs of green velvet beard covers, with platignum nos vipers attached.

The tons of nousetraps (these were very important if we were to live on the expanse of green cheese known colloquially as the moon).

A lifesize statue of Pat Doolan carved from Leron jelly and inscribed "It must be jelly as jan dont shake like that."

1 packet of crisps (in case of himer)

I bones Martian lubla cigars.

Everything was ready. All that remained was to get the formula of the secret and which Krun had invented, and make up the fuel we should need.

tailed nonless be unlocked a ring-tailed non. "The formula!" be cried, "The formula. Where is it?" "Imm, er, ah, arm, er, yuh, well it's er amm or ah in the or ah arm amm ah er invisible box in there..." "But I coust see the invisible box, "said Beegoon. "Ah, well it's er, ah arm still er there then, " re-

Page 20.

ployed the scientific genius Krun indubitably is.

Bluebottel was most annoyed when the fuel he was stirring over the fire went wrong. Erun could not understand thy it had emploded. "There was, "he told us, "only potassium chlorate, phosphorous, mitroglycerine and petrol." We too were amazed at Bluebottel's clumsiness in allowing it to en loce.

But with Bluebottel's curses ringing in our ears we got into Krun's invention one by one. As each of us climbed in we put on our space helmets (cut from the packet of a well-known breakfast certal). We closed the door as we did not want to be outside when it began to movel! The profundity of that one beats me--Edyy. Eccles had the task of closing the door belind us. lighting the blue touch-paper and without opening the door rejoining us inside. Giving him the signal he struck a match, held it to the blue paper and har Miller's script was ruined.

We were off.

(To be continued).

This missive was found on Swillington Common weighted down by eight copies of Authentic. A message attached said it had been dropped from the "Goonrochet".

Any resemblance 'twint this and the Goon Show is not only extraordinary but intentional -- DH. (Big-'ead-Ed).

VINZ CLATKE'S the unpublishable editor & the printable fans Continued, I make it, from the foot of page 12...

better ways of getting known than to publish a fanzine. I've just had a look around the work-room/study, and found copies of the latest issues of certain magazines. Not all of them, because some I've lent out but I've found ten, all different. They have the magnificent total of seventeen editors, and of these only three are represented in any other fanzine by anything other than letters! So we have one of today's Great Problems. On the one hand we have a small horde of editors who, to satisfy their desires to publish, (and, I must admit, in some cases to hold a club together) issue a 'zine which is ostentatiously local but to all intents simed at the national market, and, on the other hand, the fan who desires to publish because he's got his own ideas as to how a 'zine should look, and, in the process, partly bankrupts himself and has no time for writing to other fans. And, with the number of fanzines at present being published (I'd estimate sixteen), we're back to the problem of the pro-zine reader; with so many being published, how can you be sure of not missing something good if you don't get them all? And, even if you can afford it, why should you have to get so many?

I have a solution, but I'd like to get some other opinions first. Write to Ron and we'll have a small symposium in the next issue. Unless, of course, most of the fanzine editors min true to form and are too busy to write int

Film reviews? They spoil the picture? They add to the enjoyment? They re good publicity? They fill up a page? STARS TONY FILDS

Weighing the good with the bad this is in all quite an enjoyable picture. Take your wife. The chances are ONE of you will get in a few laughs. No, dont get me wrong. I do not mean the film stinks. Well, not all of it. As I said it's an enjoyable film. The acting is not over or under -done and even if certain members of the cast do appear to be fed up with the whole thing on occasions, there are no grumbles in this department. Desides the thing's in vacanicolor.

The theme is somewhat novel, even to Stf circles. Rocketship development is retarded because the metal of a ship's hull deteriorates in space. Then it is discovered that meteors of a certain swarm fall to earth with their metal(raw) shells intact before they finally hit the planet's atmosphere and burn out. Problem is to capture one of the said meteors before it hits the said atmosphere and said burns itself out. Three men are finally chosen to go up and capture a meteor, but only after exhaustive tests, all of which were extremely authentic. Up to the actual take-off scenes the science side of the film was very well handled, but what a pity those space shots could not have been faked better. I winced every time a rocket, with complete disregard for changing attitude, turned a corner, but when the meteors did the same, then played tag with the rocket...I came out with a mouth full of campet.

The V-2 shots were superb but the model sequences reminded me of that Abbot and Costello film...oogh! The rockets were supposed to be identical too, yet two V-2's and a Viking took off. There was absolutely no excuse either for making the contol cabin of the rocket about twenty feet in diameter, when the external diameter of a V-2 is only just over five feet. They showed bods peeping into the business end, too, thus setting the scale.

There were other boners too. The hero shouts that he is "Coring down at 2,000 m.p.h., altitude 1,200 feet." I calculate that roughly 4 seconds later he would have been a little red smear. A pull out of that vertical speed in that time would not have been such improvement.

And the boner to end them all. If the metal of earlier rockets had deteriorated so much in space, why didn't the same thing happen to these ships?

There may have been others of course ... I said one of you should get in a laugh somewhere.

In all a sincere effort, but. oooh, those floating meteors. A mixture of Clarke and Statten.

Page 22 What are the demon forces at work which make a young and popular fan-cum-pro write in such a serious vein?

There are some things in my life to which I can apply the word 'perfect'. They are each perfect in their own distinctive ways and are not dependent on any other thing. Two of them are books.

That paragraph is obscure, abstruse, vague and not even fannish. It could be enlarged upon, criticised, torn to pieces, approved of, misunderstood or merely ignored. Let's ignore it shall we? And let's concentrate on the statement that two of the things are books.

One of these books is the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. Those who have read this will apprecite that it could take a darn sight more than a fan article to comment on this adequately. To me it is perfect in that it expresses every facet of a philosophy which is in itself a complete thing and it does so poetically. But it is the other book with which I am concerned here. The prose in this book pales before that of Bradbury, or even before that of sturgeon or Leiber. It does not 'stink'; it is merely adequate. It 'has to do'. As a work of art I suppose I must admit that this book has no place. It is not even toe-high to Shakespeare; it is not fit even to wash Steinbeck; it can crawl easily between Dostoievsky's toes.

Yet it does express a philosophy which is a complete in itself and it does it as well as I ever want to see it done. Now this is a damn queer philosophy. Nobody is expected to base his whole life on it. Those who don't like it can go to hell(or stay away as they please).

Anybody who hasn't guessed what book I'm talking about is a fugghead. But for the benefit of any fuggheads in the audience

((Sir?)) the book is THE ENCHANTED DUPLICATOR.

Now that you know this beyond all doubt its up to you to decide whether the foregoing is meant to be mildly humorous or I mean every word. I'm not sure myself.

I wrote it because your editor has asked me twice, yes, twice to review T.E.D. I know I'm a conceited beggar and that I do have a bee in my bonnet about my doing high class fanzine reviews. Possibly I'm so conceited I told Ron about this, but that's no reason why he should spring the supreme test on me out of the blue. Review the Enchanted Duplicator, he says. And I say Hah.

And tough.

And moreover tosh.

Reviews consist of criticism preferably constructive but destructive if the reviewer thinks it is called for or couldn't find his collar stud that morning. T.E.D. is not a thing to be criticised. A Just the thing for an interlineation there folks. One thing you've forgotted, Ken, is the meaning of the word. To criticise means to examine critically or so it says in my dic-

| HAGGLE market supplement to PLOY | NEW WORLDS, 4-20 et 2/- each. |
|--|--|
| advertisingrateselsewhere inthemagazineandifnotYnot | SCIENCE FAMILASY 1-6 at >/- each |
| SALESALESALESALESALE. Send your order to RON BEHNETT ROHHILL LITTLE PRESTON HALL RD SVILLINGTON NR LENDS HORKS ENG | aSF(BAE): 50 Oct |
| State 2nd choice in order to avoid disappointment. Stocks R low. Any reasonable offer will not only be considered but | MAGAZINE FALTACY & S.F. Nos 3, 5, 7,8 |
| most likely accepted. | UNICIOMI MORLDS 45 Winter, 46 Winteroffers? |
| AMAZING STORIES (USA) 47 June (Shaver Mystery) 3/- 53 Apr, Aug, Oct, Dec | Tales of Wonder: 38 Winter(ne cover) |
| aSF(USA) 52 Jan, Jun, Aug, Sept, Dec. ea2/6 | WEIRD (DRE) 50 May, Sept |
| FANTASTIC SF(USA).1,2eal/- | No 10 |
| GALAXY(USA) 50 Nov, Dec | Nos 16, 22eal/- what offers for the nine? |
| 52 Sept, Oct | WANTED Send on to editorial address: (yeh, either of 'em). |
| GALACY NOVELS:4 & 5ea2/9 | BRITISH argosy SHORT STORY MAG. any pre-1949. 49 Sept.Oct. |
| omma worlds:53 Jan3/- | 40 Sept.Oct. 50 Jan, Feb, May, Jun, Oct, Dec. 51 Jan |
| THRILAING WOMDER (USA) 51 Octtorn cover1/3 | 52 Feb, nar. |
| also the following American assortment without covers, all stories intact: AMAZING: 50 Jun. Octea6d. ASTOURDING: 37 Octl/- | Planet Stories: 46 Summer 48 Summer. Vinter. 49 Spring |
| FAMOUS FANTASTIC IMSTURIES: 49 June FAMOASTIC MOVELS 50 Jan. 6d. FINTASTIC STORY JUANTIFILM: 51 Spring. | 1950 Spring. TitilLing WONDOR: 46 Spring. 40 Oct. or any other mags containing stories by Ray Bradbury, fmz included |
| SUPER SCHENCE51 Jan6d. THE TILLING WONDER 49 Oct6d. WONDER STORIES: 32 June1/6 | JAZZ NECORDS featuring: LOUIS ARMSTRONG'S MOT 5. MID ONY'S CREOLE JAZZ DAND KID ONY. |
| 34 Oct, 35 aug, 36 Apr. eal/- SALE: C CLARIMET. Offers? | BUDDY BOLDEN (cylindrical records only). |
| Medicide A Administration A A A war and a A | 00 18 18 0 1 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 |

aglaglaglaglaglaglaglaglaglaglaglagla

Page 24

KEN POTTER'S critique, continued from page 22..... tionary. Which means a critic CAM have it both waysyy.

True there is a typo here and there and the duplicating (in my copy at least) is not all it might be (the the layout is). It might be improved by the addition of a few illos but it would take a better illustrator than Bob Shaw and a better medium than stencil to get them across.

These things are the only faults. Since in some future era when T.E.D. is published in a fabulous reprint edition, when there is a real genius capable of illustrating they could be easily rectified, they do not matter. T.E.D., in any way, is perfect.

So how I can take it further I don't see. I'm sorry if I've failed to dissect the plot, guess the brand of the ink, give the number of pages or tell the author what to do. In most cases I would do some of that. But with T.B.D. I can't.

It is the fannish philosophy, way of life, or mere hobby, summed up in well chosen symbolism with humour so well presented that you almost wish it were true.

I believe in some measure that it achieved its original purpose. It gave fundom a shot in the arm and helped to renew the enthusiasm of some fen who had been a little turgid in their activity. But although Walt might not think so I recken it did a lot more.

It made clear what fandom should be; it was not Midebound. It didn't condern everything but like the Quandry-Kyphen type zines it simply expressed fandom. And if fandom should collapse tomorrow there is still"The Enchanted Duplicator."

If you're really interested these are the people to blame....

= DUR CONTRIBUTORS ==

21 year-old co-editor of BEM, the fanzine which MALCOLM ASHMORTH: shook fandom in May by printing a GOOD firstish. Before churning out his own zine Mal's name could be found in the letter column of any fanmag. Now charges union rates for even his incone-tax forms. The county's leading popsie chaser, he writes: "I was born. Somewhat later I entered fandom. Recently I met Ron Bennett. I am now recuperating but my faith in human nature is irreparably shaken and I am thinking of emigrating to South America." (What has South America done to you, Mal?)). Is also a follower of the true prophet.

This prolific famoriter was voted to the head of A.VINCENT CLARKE: the Trans-Atlantic Fan Fund this year. Vine has appeared in practically every faming and has edited, amongst others, SCIENCE FANTASY MEMS. HYPHEN, HIRVANA and i. Association Editor of OMPA, he says he is "32 years old, insane, unrarried, slowly ceasing to read s-f, deep green all over, telepathic, intelligent, witty, modest, and that he "loves mixing truth and fiction. Hates work too." A pro-cum-faned.

the suckers who wrote thish, continued ...

The hard-working editor of ORION, a magazine which PAUL ENEVER: continues to break all the rules of Fandom by appearing regularly, on the eighth of every other month. End of plug. Paul is something of a mystery character in ignoring constant demands, requests, invocations, for a potted biography. Certainly the name on the contents page of Nebula 4 matches.

A new name in fanzine contributions. Actually PLOY TOWY FIELDS: must admit that the name is a pseudonym. Our film review is a combined effort from two well-known(?) fen. The clue to their respective identities is in the name, natch.

DONALD HARMM: graphy. I got the following facts in an ointment bottle: (the odd pong is due to the bottle, which with my customary good taste, has not been washed). Born Huddersfield 18.11.34. Educated Hebden Bridge G.S., Calder High School, Castleford G.S., Bristol University. Hobbies: Jazz, jazz, cricket and giving gratis advice to all. Work: History, history, history, history. Attracted, nay dragged, to SF by an uncouth person of disceputable appearance (Gee, tanks!) who is a bus-conductor. Legal action taken at the slightest offence (He should talk). Likes: putting heads in vices, screwing arms, bending fingers, gouging and money. Dislikes: Socalled progressive jazz, pop tunes and bop; Also work and parting with money. Distinguishing features: Specs, bald patch, violent behavior, and a habit of forming horrible noises from anything remotely resembling a musical instument. So now you know. Don did forget to mention his height, six foot, three!

A leading light in Fandom for some years on whom the TERRY JEEVES: truth is now revealed. He says: "I was born in Sheffield October 1st 1922. Attending school required number of years. Matriculated (NOT a dirty word) and began my working career (Kiyy as a steel analyst. Later volunteered for RAF and served 4 years in India, Ceylon, and the Cocos Islands. After the war went through Training College (No comment), got married, a mistake later rectified, and began teaching in March 1948. Took a first in Higher National Maths at evening school and an Art Teacher's Diploma the same way. Began reading S.F. at the age of 10 and got roped into Fandom after the war. Hobbies are S.F., radio, art and popsies." Terry has had an illo in Nebula, his soul professional appearance, whilst he recently won the FAS award for a bookmark design. Is one-third of TRIODE.

Born May 1934 but hardly looks his years. By occupation TRIAN LEWIS: is a shipwright apprentice at Chatham Dockyard. He also finds time for dancing, listening to Ted Heath, amateur dramatics, drawing, painting and "-er-oh yes! Science Fiction." His ambitions are "to break into pro-mag illustrating and eventually become a freelance commercial artist. Oh- and to get married! "Brian is another of our professionals in that some of his cartoons have appeared in the Vargo Statten Mag.

Page 26.

Three more contributors...

The twenty-one year old secretary of the Yorkshire BEN MORENCY: Wanderers Science Fiction Club, the group of busconductors who read the stuff. His contribution to PLOY is his first for a fanzine and was a direct result of his reading through a pile of fannags I lent him, combined with a conversation in which the Mancon featured prominently. Says he hasnt the time to enter fandom seriously.

One of the country's youngest and most promising KENNETH POTTER: actifans. A leading light in the now-defunct Junior Fanatics and editor of the J.F's mag PERL. Is at present engaged in putting out BRENNSCHLUSS. Poor kid, he doesn't even collect rejection slips—his first attempt was published in Nebula!

In order to cater for fantasy-lovers and -collectors, JACK SHILLIE: PLOY gave Jack a run. Jack is one of the genre's most thorough experts and writes a regular column on fantasy in ORDIT. Secretary of the Leeds S.F.A., Jack is married, with one young son. Aged 32, if you're interested; If not he's still 32. Diesel engine repairer.

so now you know who to gun for at that next con.

Every fanzine has a letter column so I suppose I'll have to buy some nore stencils and get cracking....

WREADERS RIOT

The following goodwill messages arrived just too late to catch our firstish:"From a neo-fanne to a neo-fan, best wishes for PLOY"--Joan W. Carr.

"I do hope you get lots of fun out of PLOY and make it a considerable success"-Eric Frank Russell.

"Good luck to you with your magazine" - Ray Bradbury.

The longest and most detailed lover is reprinted in full:-

"Very many thanks for the copy of PLOY, but before telling you what I think of it in detail, I have one general criticism. Don't you think that the very limited printing of your first issue will tend to hamper future sales? After all, very few fem will have heard of the 'zine. & See your point, Terry, but in actual fact exactly the reverse occurred. Time and money were against ne at the time, hence the small number of copies put out. Word got around. Result was a reasonably large mailing list for thish, even before I'd got to thinking about the thing-Rony Now to detail. Cover. I thought this was terrific, but how on earth did you manage to get a Quinn illo, or is it traced from a mag? The second colour is well-used; pity

THE LEEDS SCIENCE-FICTION FOUR MAGASSOC

marterly publication. GRORGE GIBSON, Little London, Aberford,

Official Organ of the Leeds S.F.A. Contains something for everybody!

1/per copy,

Serious and humorous articles and stories connected with Stf or sci-

5/= for six fantasy are found in every issue.

containing the best best'. Very irregular publication. one shilling a copy from RON BETWETT, at either his home address, "Ronhill," Little Preston Hall Road, Swillington, Nr. Leeds or his college residential address, "The Grange," Beckett Park, Leeds 6. BURP! OMPA's only crudmine, also comes from the former address.

Bennett's title, Bradford's mag...

Beli's slant is towards humour and famishness.

produced entirely independently on the club's dupers, at 9d a copy from:

TOM WHITE. 3, Vine Street, Cutler Heights, Bradford, 4. and (Quarterly)

40, Makin Street, Bradford, 4.

the phocnix itself ...

Quarterly. at 9d a copy, from J.MICHAEL ROSENBLUM at 7, Grosvenor Park Chapel Allerton, Leeds, 7...devoted to fantasy fiction.